Editorial Cullings.

It is Secretary Elkins now.

The Democratic party has sworn off using Cleveland and Mills.

Down with toadism to foreign financiers—and up with American money.

Reciprocity with Central America is the latest. One by one the simmons fall.

Ingalls has "straddled" too much to ever get back to the senate again. In fact he is "on the fence," so to speak.

Number of meat meals which the English workman has in one week: 7. Number of meals which the American workman has in one week: 21.

Gov. Russell of Massachusetts has given his state away to Cleveland. If Cleveland was to get it, it would surely be a "give away."

Will Eureka Springs inaugurate stone sidewalks in 1892? This is one of the most important subjects of the day. All that we have to say is that if she doesn't, she had ought to.

The outlook for business, according to Dunn &amp; Co., is most excellent, but just as sure as fate if Congress attempts a job of tariff tinkering, a depression in business will follow.—Lead Hill Herald.

Eureka Springs is to have a Republican Club. Our city is in the lead of most Arkansas towns in this respect, as well as in others. She is behind in only one thing. Her World's Fair fund is entirely too small to be popular.

There is nothing truer, in the philosophy of the Atebison Globe, than the following: It has been observed that the man who wears the front lock of his hair pasted down low on his forehead always makes more time to say less than any other man in the world."

"Two years ago," said the editor, "before we struck the newspaper business, all our wealth consisted of a five-dollar bill."

"And now?"

"We are trying to remember how that five-dollar bill looked.—Atlanta Constitution.

A cheap coat is the demand of the age. So, at least, Cleveland says. He should add, however, that a cheap coat means a cheap tailor. Average daily wages of tailors in Germany, 60 cents per day; in England, $1.25 cents per day; in the United States, (New York State) $2.50. How should we profit as a nation to reduce the price of clothing and establish 60 cents per day as the current wages of tailors.

It would take a microscopic analysis to determine the difference between the Crisp wing of the Democratic party now in the saddle, and the Republican party's position on the tariff. The silver question is all that is left there. True to its record, the Democratic party has dropped into the path trodden three years ago by the Republican party. The tariff reform cry is now a mockery and the election of Crisp is an acknowledgement that its policy as upheld by Cleveland and Mills is wrong and that protection is right.—Rogers Republican.

DR. C. E. DAVIS' PROJECT NOW AN ASSURED FACT.

THE SANATARIUM WILL BE BUILT.

Chicago and Philadelphia Capital will Aid in the Upbuilding of Eureka Springs by a Series of Grand Improvements.

It is glad news to our citizens to know that the Sanitarium project has assumed definite proportions, and that all of the desired lands are now in the hands of sterling and energetic business men who will make this city take more rapid strides in the line of improvements than her citizens have before dared to expect. They are men who expect to make money by their work, and being capitalists and financiers, there is no doubt but what they will. Such improvements as they intend making cannot help but make three dollars for our city where they make one. The projectors have commenced work in earnest, and have already cleared about forty acres on Grand View, where a large force of men and boys have been busy the past week under B. F. Putnam. They will make a fine park at this place and build turnpikes to Crystal Lake (which is also one of their possessions), and to the city. Altogether the company has secured over 1700 acres of land, which borders our city on the south and east, 100 acres of which is within the corporate limits. For all this land the company has paid good prices, in fact more than it was worth, and this alone goes to show that the company intends to work in harmony with our people to better the condition of all concerned. Crystal Lake will be one of the principal points, and a new dam will be built that will make the water cover an area of about nineteen acres. Ninety thousand dollars is to be expended in the erection of a large hotel, which will have a frontage of six stories on Main Street and four stories on Spring Street, opposite the old Perry House site. It is the intention to run a motor line from this hotel to Grand View, and thence to Crystal Lake, where a large restaurant will be erected. The Sanitarium will of course be the principal building, and all the buildings will be thoroughly equipped water works and Sewerage. This is no idle talk, but is one of the sure enterprises that will put our city on an equal footing with any resort in the way of improvements and accommodations for visitors. The projectors have necessarily been very quiet, but have at last reached the point where they do not need to conceal their intentions. G. A. Adams, the company's engineer arrived yesterday from Chicago, and his assistants and the foreman are expected to arrive to-day or to-morrow, and the work of surveying and laying out the lots, turnpikes and parks will be commenced Monday, the weather permitting.

The prospectors are making no estimates on things they do not intend to carry into effect. They are men of means and have backing that will insure them in all they undertake. They estimate the outlay at not less than one-half a million dollars.

This means better times for Eureka Springs, more work for the laboring men, more and better accommodations, and consequently more visitors.

The company offers to donate a site for the erection of the Baptist College, which our city is competing for, and which she will no doubt obtain. They also intend to erect a business college at their own expense.

Dr. Davis has done splendid service for our city in obtaining this institution, and we are glad to say that he will now receive the credit that is due him. He has met many reverses but his efforts are now being crowned with success.

"The heights of great men reached and kept
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they while their companions slept
Were toiling upward in the night."

MR. MILLS' BOY CHARLEY.

"Eli Perkins" Teaches the Boy What Northern Education Will Do.

Melville D. Landon, of New York better known as "Eli Perkins," was in the city yesterday evening on his way to Vermillion, where he lectured last night before the students of the University of South Dakota, says the Journal. The Journal reporter encountered the humorist at the train and spent the forty minutes of his wait in his company. When asked to relate something fresh in his Western experience, he said:

"On the Omaha train for Sioux City to-day was Congressman Mills, of Texas. With him was his bright little boy who had been in the Minneapolis school. The little fellow was as bright as his father, but did not seem to know anything about the fallacies of politics. He was ready to answer all questions, and his astuteness astonished even his father.

"I asked Mr. Mills if I might ask the little fellow some questions and note his quick school boy answers.

"Certainly," said the genial congressman, "go ahead and you will find Charley bright enough to answer anything.

"And you won't interrupt us?" I asked.

"Certainly not."

"Now Charley," I said, calling the little fellow up to me, "I'm going to ask some hard questions, harder than cube root, and I don't believe a little fellow 12-year-old like you can answer them."

"I reckon I can," said the proud little Texan.

"Well, Charley," I said, "if I lived in a town where all the people sent over to the next town to buy their things, what would be the effect?"

"Why," said Charley, "our merchants would all be poor, for all our money would go away, wouldn't it? We'd all be poor, sure."

"Right, Charley," I said, "Now how would it effect a nation that was digging $100,000,000 a year out of the ground and raising $3,000,000 worth of cotton and $100,000,000 worth of wheat if it sent this gold and cotton and wheat over to other nations and traded them for store pay like gloves and silks and linen and tin and sugar?"

"Why, we'd be poor like the town, of course."

"Yes, Charley," I said, "But suppose our nation made its own sugar and linen and tin and wine and kept its $100,000,000 dug out of the mountains and sold its tobacco and cotton for gold?"

"Why, it would make our nation awful rich, wouldn't it?" said Charley.

"Yes, my boy," I said, "it would."

"Again, Charley, suppose our country had kept $100,000,000 of gold and sold over $3,000,000 worth of cotton and wheat and tobacco for money for thirty years, how much wealth would we have in this country?"

"Why," Charley figuring on a piece of paper, "we would have $4,000,000,000. But why did we keep it? Why didn't we manufacture our own things? Ain't we never going to manufacture them?"

"Yes," I said, "we are trying to now. Now, Charley," I continued, "suppose they are paying 60 cents per day to poor laborers in Europe for making knives and silk cloth and tin, and the freight from Europe is only 60 cents a hundred, and our workmen are making $2 a day here, what would our workmen do if we had free trade?"

"Why, they would have to work for the same wages that they do in Europe plus the freights. Of course anyone can see that, can't they, father?" and Charley looked up at the father of the Mills bill.

"But, Charley, if we put on a protective tariff of about 50 per cent against these European things made by cheap labor, how would that affect our laboring men?"

"Why we could pay them more wages, of course; that's plain as day."

"Then, Charley, what do we mean by putting on a protective tariff against European manufacturers?"

"Why, then we have to make them here. We pay big wages and keep our money home; any fool can see that, can't they, pa?"

"Here, Charley," said Congressman Mills, taking off his glasses with an American bandana, "let me ask you a question now."

"Don't you see all the pauper laborers of Europe coming over here, Charley? Now, my son, how can we keep them back?"

"Why, papa, we could take off this tariff, couldn't we, and then our wages would go down as low as theirs, our factories would stop and theirs would start up, and they wouldn't want to come here, would they? They wouldn't want to come here, papa, if our wages weren't higher than theirs, would they?"

"Mr. Mills did not answer but went into the smoking car to think.

"While he was gone I asked Charley what would be the effect of putting a tariff of 25 cents against the wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley and potatoes raised in Canada, in a country twelve times as large as Dakota.

"It will keep that stuff back, won't it?" said Charley, "and raise the price here?"

"And how will that affect the price of land, Charley?"

"Why, better prices for wheat would make that go up, too, and I heard a farmer telling papa this morning that the land all over Iowa and Dakota and Illinois was going up fast. Is it?"

"Yes, Charley, it is," I said. The farmer is getting on top again.

Thousands of manufacturers are making sugar, silk, chicory, linen, tin, glass and pottery. They are moving over from Europe and soon our manufacturers will eat up all of our surplus wheat, and then what, Charley?"

"Well, I guess they'll have to pay a good price for it in gold, too, by giner! and that will make the farmer rich, won't it? And so we will have lots of gold and lots of manufacturers, everybody will be prosperous, wages will be higher, competition will make manufactured articles cheap, and we will be a great country, won't we?"

"You bet we will, Charley," I said, "and when you get to be a man if you are as sound on these questions as you are now, we will make you speaker of the House."

"Mr. Mills now came in and said: 'I must take Charley back to Corsicana. Those Northern school boys talk and think too much.'"

Eli Perkins will return to Sioux City from Vermillion and go out in Nebraska to-morrow.

Don't forget to write the "2" after the "9" in the date line.

The lecture which was to have been given by Prof. Williams, last night, at the Central, was postponed on account of bad weather until sometime next week.

The Rainbow here-to-fore has been black and white, but yesterday it shone brightly in black and pink. It is a good paper, and we congratulate Col. Betten.

The council met in special session Wednesday afternoon and passed an ordinance fixing the rate of license for hotels and boarding houses as follows: Hotels of the first-class $50; hotels of the second-class $25; boarding houses of the first-class $15; boarding houses of the second-class $10. Hotel or boarding house drummer's license was placed at $25.

A RESULT OF FREE TRADE.

The following paragraph taken from the New York Tribune of January 15, 1855, describes the condition of the country at that time as seen by the great master mind of Horace Greeley, who was an honest man:

"Who is hungry? Go and see. You that are full-fed, and know not what it is to be hungry—perhaps never saw a hungry man—go and see. Go and see thousands, men and women, boys and girls, old and young, black and white, of all nations, crowding and jostling each other, almost fighting for a first chance, acting more like hungry wolves than a human being in a land of plenty. It is only by the continuous efforts of two policemen that the crowd can be kept in order, or made to wait till the food is ready for distribution. Such a scene may be seen every day between 11 and 12 o'clock around the corner of Orange and Chatham streets, where charity gives a dinner to the poor, and soup and bread to others to carry to their miserable families.

"On Saturday we spent an hour there at the hour of high tide. We have never seen anything like it before. Upward of 1000 people were fed with a plate of soup, a piece of bread, and a piece of meat; on the premises, and in all more than 1,600. On the same day 1130 portions of soup were dealt out from Stewart's 'soup kitchen' in the rear of the great store, corner of Reade street and Broadway. At the rooms on Duane street for the relief of the poor, on the same day, they gave food to 2256. In the sixth ward alone over 6000 persons were fed by charity on Saturday, January 13. And this is only one day in one ward. Meanwhile scenes of a like nature are being enacted all over the city. A procession of several thousand persons kept marching about the streets yesterday, with flags and banners which bore such inscriptions as 'Hunger is a Sharp Thorn,' 'The Last Resource,' 'Live and Let Live,' 'We Want Work,' etc.

"Such are the scenes that are being enacted daily before our eyes, while the cry of hard times reaches us from every part of the country. The making of roads is stopped, factories are closed, and houses and ships are no longer being built. Factory hands, road makers, carpenters, bricklayers, and laborers are idle, and paralysis is rapidly embracing every pursuit in the country. The cause of this stoppage of circulation is to be found in the steady outflow of gold to pay foreign laborers for the cloth, the shoes, the iron, and the other things that could be produced by American labor, but which cannot be so produced under our present revenue system. The convulsion would have come upon us sooner but for the extraordinary demand in Europe for breadstuffs, growing out of huge famines and big wars, and but for the dazzling and magnificent discovery of gold mines in California, by which hard money sufficient to buy an empire has been called into existence and exported to Europe. If we could stop the import of the foreign articles, the gold would cease to flow out to pay for them, and money would then become more abundant, labor would then again be in demand, shoes, clothing, and other commodities would then again be in demand, and men would then cease to starve in the streets of our towns and cities. If it be not stopped the gold must continue to go abroad, and employment must become from day to day more scarce, until, where there are many thousands, we shall see tens of thousands of men everywhere crying, 'Give me work. Only give me work. Make your own terms; my wife and children have nothing to eat.'"

The above is a real picture of those times drawn from life, and yet the average Democratic leader says that was the golden period of American history.

Ninety nine out of every one hundred of the Blaine Republicans are so because he is their honest preference and first choice, and not from hostility to Harrison.

In applying the surplus to the reduction of the public debt, the Republican party has reduced the interest charge upon tax payers $12,000,000. This is a fact that knocks the wind out of the calamity orators of the Democracy.

The American people live more in the present than they do in the past; more in the future than they do in the present. Protection in this respect is purely American. It is a great benefit for the present, and a blessing for the future. It so happens that this blessing is not coming in disguise.

We received a copy of the WEEKLY REPUBLICAN published at Eureka Springs. It is full of red hot politics. Every year sees an improvement in that section of the country, and the time will soon come when the expression, "The Solid South" will become obsolete.—Stuart, (Iowa) Locomotive.

The Eureka Springs REPUBLICAN is getting to be a very, very rabid Republican sheet, something on the bloody shirt order.—Carroll Progress.

If the policy of protection to American industries is of the "bloody shirt," Republican order, we acknowledge the corn. We are anything in preference to an "Old Country" tool.

Congressman Peel in voting against Mills for Speaker of the House does violence to the wishes of his constituents.—Baxter County Citizens

We haven't any doubt but what Mr. Peel has an entirely satisfactory reason for voting for Mr. Crisp.—Springdale News.

Mr. Peel knows a thing or two, and one of those things is that to vote for Mills and his doctrine would be a step toward the destruction of home industries. Mr. Peel has a good job, and does not wish to lose it. In fact he keeps his eyes Peel-ed.

A petition is being circulated for a meeting to be held on the evening of January 5th '92 at Central Hall for the purpose of organizing a Republican Club. It is a movement in the right direction and we hope the meeting will be well attended. The personal grievances, disagreements, likes and dislikes we believe should not and will not be in the way of making the Club a success in uniting the Republicans of this city and county and in disseminating the principles of the party.

EUREKA SPRINGS DURING 1891.

The people of Eureka Springs may well be proud of the progress that the city has made during the year just passed. While all surrounding towns were more or less stagnant, Eureka made radical and rapid strides forward. At midnight on October 3, 1890, the cry of fire and the ringing of bells awakened our people from their peaceful slumbers to find one of the largest hotels ablaze and past redemption, and by morning thousands of dollars worth of nearly all business property was destroyed. It was the second great fire in a little over a year and the work of that night filled the hearts of many with dismay. Dismayed but not discouraged. The citizen of Eureka Springs is never discouraged. He does not know that word. In less than three months the dirt flew and we were at work laying the foundations for new buildings, not for wooden ones like the old, but for substantial two and four story buildings of brick and stone with a frontage of 300 feet and costing together $44,000. We have not yet learned the amount expended during the year in the erection of new residences but can assure that not less than $25,000 was expended in that way. The Inter-State Summer Normal and Educational Assembly expended $15,000 in erecting the Auditorium and improving their grounds; the Eureka Springs Electric Light and Street Railway Co. expended $16,000 in completing and equipping in first class manner over one and one-half miles of street railway; the School Board expended about $6,000 in the erection of a three story brick and stone school building that is a credit to the Board as well as the city; the Sewer Commissioners expended $8,000 on our sewerage system and have over $3,500 on hand for the water works, making a total of about $117,500 expended for improvements during the year in the city and nearly all of it home capital. A splendid record full of promise for our future, in fact from plans that we know to be now under way, we feel confident in saying that the coming year will be even a far more prosperous one. We have the grandest water and the finest climate and are getting there with both feet.

THAT IS SO.

The discovery has been made that monkeys talk to each other. It is dollars to doughnuts, however, that the monkeyest monkey of them all cannot expiate upon the tariff as idiotically as the average Democratic politician.—Weekly Republican, Eureka Springs.

No, but a parrot is learned to talk very much the same as the average free trader. Some one says something and the parrot repeats after him: just so with these little swamp Democratic papers. The St. Louis Republic says something and they all repeat. You know the campaign cry in '88 was "The tariff is a tax." All the Democratic porrots in the country learned this idiotic phrase.—Ft Smith Republican.

President Harrison has decided to exercise the power vested in him in section 3 of the reciprocity clause of the McKinley Tariff bill and issue a proclamation restoring the duties on sugar, coffee, teas and molasses from the countries that have not negotiated reciprocity treaties with our government. The proclamation took effect yesterday.

Mr. Blaine will have to take some positive action to the contrary, or he will find himself nominated over his own head.—Philadelphia Inquirer (Rep.)

David Bennett Hill has made another infamous achievement that will endear him more than ever to his party. He has stolen the New York legislature for the Democracy.

Miss Helen Gould has gotten into society and danger. Her debut is followed by the discovery of a plot to kidnap her. All of which goes to show that none but the rich enjoy the pleasures of life.—Star Sayings.

Isn't it getting about time for our citizens to have another mass-meeting for some cause or other? It would liven matters up a little. A demand for better sidewalks would be a splendid subject for such a gathering.

Notwithstanding an advance of duty on flax and hemp, and a corresponding advance on twine by the McKinley tariff, a recent price list of twine, yarns, shoe threads etc., issued by the Cable Flax Mills of Schaghticoke and including 150 different grades and size of goods, showed not only no advance over the same company's prices of August 1890, but reduction of prices on 85.

The outlook for the Democratic party is anything but encouraging and cheering. Springer's proposed measures mean relief for manufacturers in certain lines. The very suggestion is traitorous to the underlying principles of Democracy. Mr. Springer is a vacillating man of little backbone, or a corrupt politician. The appointment of such a man as Chairman is an assault on the integrity of the party.—Memphis Commercial. (Dem.)

A new political element has been evolved in the eastern states. It is composed of disgruntled Democrats and they are classified as Jibooses, in contradistinction to the Mugwumps who left the Republican party because they thought there was a better field for reform with Democracy. Mills is now the leader of the Jibooses and the New York Press believes that if Cleveland is unable to capture the Democratic nomination he will be made the candidate of another "third party" composed of Mugwumps and Jibooses.

There is not a particle of doubt but that at least 3,000 or 4,000 Democrats from Missouri, Illinois, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas voted for Blunder Boies in Iowa last month. More strangers voted in Des Moines than ever before, and nearly all of them have not been seen in this city since the morning after the election, when they were leaving on nearly every train. The K. & D. M. train out of Des Moines the morning after the election was crowded with men, very few of whom were known to be residents of this city who were on the same train, and Missourians were picked up at several stations as the train moved southward. It was a new Democratic scheme in Iowa that will be closely watched hereafter. Next year the colonized voters of this year will be needed at home and the Iowa election returns of 1892 will give the positive proof of the iniquity of the voters who were brought into this state this year and voted like cattle for Bois and Beer, and all their expenses paid by the "boodle" of the brewers and distillers.—Iowa State Register.

THE CROAKER.

The following, captured in its flight among our exchanges, is so full of the milk of the coconut that we appropriate it at once without stopping to enquire where it came from or try to account for 'how it got there.'

The croaker, born of woman, is a man of long face and full of alarms. He is out of joint and sees no good in anything under the sun or the heavens.

You may tell him of a new scheme that will make you rich, but he will take the wind out of your sails and make you feel like a sucker at a strange dance. You may believe that the town of his inhabitancy is a fair place of abode and destined to become a metropolis in which corner lots will sell for many hundred dollars a foot, but after writhing under the baleful influence of the croaker for half an hour you will think the town is as dead as the famous ghost of the mighty Caesar and because you possess real estate in it you wish you had never been born or had died when you were young.

Out with you croaker, you have killed more honest enthusiasm than ten thousand such sniffers as yourself could incite. You have caused promising towns to retrograde to sleepy villages; you have retarded the development of vast areas of country that but for you might be flourishing like a green bay tree. You talked the snap out of multitudes of young men and caused them to seek the bowl of inebriates; you have made hosts of active, hustling men weary of this troubled dream of life.—Sulphur Springs Speaker.

OF
H. I. SEIDEL & CO.

The tone of the communication in another column from a Green Forest lad shows that he is not so much of a "hay seed" as his signature would indicate. In fact his article is one of the best we have read from that little town since the days of Berry and the Tomahawk.

We printed the handsomest calendars of the season for John Bridgeford, the popular feed man and commission merchant, Monday. John is one of Eureka Spring's most enterprising and successful business men, and knows how to make patrons and how to keep them.

There is less drunkenness in Eureka Springs than any city of its size we know of. The fact is, we would have a model town if we only had first-class sidewalks.

Uncle John Davis has made the Public School Library a present of the revised edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica. It is a valuable present and will be fully appreciated.

We are glad to note that the arrivals are again on the increase. The prospects for Eureka Spring's future were never brighter than they are now, at the beginning of 1892.

Mrs. D. W. Stidham died Tuesday afternoon at her residence on Clay street. She was 72 years of age. The funeral took place Thursday at 2 o'clock. At this writing her husband is laying very low with the same malady with which the deceased was afflicted, la grippe and pneumonia.

The Baptists contemplate the erection of a ten thousand dollar church in this city, next spring. If all the improvements now mentioned for Eureka Springs are carried through, she will be the first health and pleasure resort of the land.

The ball at the Crescent Hotel was not very largely attended, but those present report a splendid time. The Committee was disappointed on account of the Bentonville band not coming as was expected, but Prof. Von Meddis furnished excellent music for the occasion.

There was a very enjoyable musicale and reception at the Belding House last night. The parlors were crowded and a splendid time was spent in social games, conversation and music. Refreshments were served, and the fact that Mother Belding cooked them is ample proof of their quality.

FROM GREEN FOREST.

GREEN FOREST, ARK, DEC. 31, 1891.

ED. REPUBLICAN:—When in Eureka I often hear the question asked, "Where is Green Forest?" We will try to tell you. We are 23 miles east of Eureka Springs, on the Harrison road. We are almost exactly in the geographical center of the Eastern district of Carroll county. Hence the reason the people of Carroll county want the county seat removed to Green Forest. As it is, both courts are held in the West end of the county. Our people want the county divided and Eureka to be the county seat for the Western District. As it now is, Eureka has a court but none of the real county seat business.

We are surrounded by one of the best farming districts in Northwest Arkansas. We raise all kinds of fruit, both great and small, to perfection. Our land is level and for the most part free from rock. Our farmers are prosperous and they "carry the signs" too, in the way their farms are improved and stocked; their large roomy barns which at this time of the year are filled with fragrant products of field and meadow; their neat, comfortable cottages, filled with rosy cheeked lads and lassies. Not only is our locality prosperous but our little city also partakes of our prosperity. We do more business than any other town in the county except the "City of Springs."

We have ten general merchandise stores, two groceries, one hardware, two drug stores, two grist mills, one fruit evaporator, one newsy little paper, and one graded school which is gaining considerable notoriety as an institution of learning. We have two hotels and a third under construction, which promises to be a fine one, and we have in all about three hundred inhabitants. Green Forest is not on a boom, but just a steady, healthy growth.

We are proud of our town and its location and surroundings, its substantial growth, its good school, its merchantile prosperity, its public spirit and enterprise and last, but not least, its future.

Now with your consent. Mr. Editor, we will try to keep you informed as to the "doings" of Green Forest and her people, if you can spare us a little space in your valuable paper now and then.
HAY SEED.

FROM REED'S SCHOOL HOUSE.

Wm. Goldwing who has recently purchased the Bostic farm, is displaying a good deal of energy in making improvements. He is cutting off the timber and converting it into stove wood, clearing off the ground for clover and orchard, digging down the hills and making roads. This is a very laudable enterprise. There is so much land in this country that cannot be utilized for any other purpose than for roads.

On Christmas eve an enjoyable entertainment was had at Reed's school house. Two Christmas trees connected with an arch of cedar all artistically decorated and richly hung with presents, were exhibited. The performance opened with a grand march on the organ by that master performer, Mrs. Emma Whitehead. A chorus, accompanied by the organ tendered some very fine Christmas songs. Mrs. Hamilton offered prayer, and also an oration which was both eloquent and instructive. After the oration came a declamation by Millie Burnett introducing Santa Claus, who came in jumping, laughing, talking and cutting up as many antics as a circus clown. Then came the distribution of the presents. Many fine presents were given among which was a beautiful album presented by the scholars to their teacher, Miss Nettie McClosky. So much time was taken up in distributing the presents that part of the programme was dispensed with. The performance closed with singing "God be With You." The large crowd then dispersed, full of joy and gladness regretting only that Christmas comes but once a year.

TEMPERANCE IN THE HOME.

It was a feast to the temperance people of our city to have Miss I. C. De Velling a week or two ago. We feel assured the cause has gained many friends by her arguments. Those against License and in favor of Prohibition seemed to us unanswerable. We can not see how any reasonable man who heard her can again vote for Licensing the saloons. We agree with her that if strong drink is good for a man it must be just as good for poor broken down women. But fortunately the latter generally see no good in the use of intoxicants.

What sort of a home is that where both father and mother are overcome with this drink? The writer has in mind just such a household, where nearly everything has been pawned for whiskey—such as the husband's boots, the wife's gold ring, the window shades and even many little treasures belonging to the children. Yet the man could earn $30 a week easily. When pay day would come, beer and whiskey would be bought and both parents turn in and drink until the stuff was all gone. While the poor little children would be on the streets most of the time, and rarely knew what it was to sit down to the table for a meal. And yet because we want to reach such little ones and save them and their parents, some people call us fanatics. Call us that if you choose but still our prayer is "God bless the Temperance Cause."

M. D. J.

SURELY HE IS WORTH SAVING.

"I have had a temperance lecture to-day—an abject lesson as it were," said a well known Missourian yesterday. "I saw a physical and intellectual wreck this morning in the person of a young man whose name and fame were the pride of a certain section of Missouri only a few years ago. When pointed out to me he was leaning helplessly against a pillar in front of a hotel where he was once an honored guest. He was too drunk to be boisterous and so much of a fixture that there was no danger of his staggering in anybody's way. His clothes were seedy, his slouch hat mud-stained and his long black hair clammy and unkempt. It was what was left of a once brilliant man. I knew him well and watched his career with interest until a few years ago, when he dropped out of sight socially and politically. He came from Kentucky, and had much of the bearing of the typical Kentuckian, and was strikingly handsome. He was well educated, and before he was out of his teens was regarded as a good lawyer. He was the best fellow in the world, socially—brave, magnanimous and gifted. He naturally drifted into politics and was phenomenally successful. He filled various local offices and went to the Lower House of the Missouri Legislature, but soon became a drunkard, noted for the length and eccentric character of his 'jags.' Now here he is in St. Louis a social outcast and mental wreck. His pale, classic face is still a model of beauty and will attract attention anywhere. But I discovered yesterday that something of his old aristocratic, thoroughbred self was left, for he wanted the loan of a 'five' to pay for a carriage ride."

Surely a movement that tends to save such as he is worthy the support of all reasonable people.

Great excitement prevails in the vicinity of Rover, a small village in the mountains in an unsettled part of Yell county, Arkansas, over a rich find of gold in some old abandoned Spanish mines. Rover is thirty miles from Russellville, on the Little Rock and Fort Smith Railway, the nearest railroad point. Assays of the ore found show the presence of the precious metal in paying quantities.

Miss Fannie Scott has won high encomiums from all over the state for her faithful and indefatigable efforts in behalf of the World's Fair. Recently a well merited honor was bestowed on her, in that she was elected a member of the Board of Lady Managers. It was mainly through her personal efforts that Crawford County won the proud distinction of being the first to raise her full assessment to represent the best county in the first state on the globe.—Van Buren Graphic.

ENDORSED BY ENGLISH ENEMIES.

The action of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce in deciding not to take part in the World's Fair at Chicago is a splendid endorsement of the American tariff law. They based their action on their own declaration that "the McKinley law deprives the Liverpool merchants of Chicago trade and American manufacturers would only copy English exhibits." That is the most solid and comprehensive endorsement that the American tariff has yet received from any foreign organization, and it is a declaration that will be accepted by the people of the United States that the tariff is a policy of government, that it should be sustained in order that our home markets may be developed by the building up home industries. England discriminates against American live stock and all meat products, and yet demands free admission to our ports for every article that is manufactured in the British empire! Her starving millions must have our surplus grain to sustain life, but she derives income from discrimination against our meat products of every description, and thus gain revenue and protection for her own meat producers. The absence of Liverpool merchants at the Chicago Exposition will be the strongest possible proof to all the world that the blessed McKinley tariff law is accomplishing the very purpose for which it was enacted.—Iowa State Register.
