Sayings and Doings of the Past Week Resend to Your Pleasure and Amusement.

FROM FRIDAY'S DAILY.

F. Burney, of this city, returned home this morning from Aurora, Mo., where he has been on a visit.

Mrs. G. T. Walker, of Harrison, Ark., passed through the city this morning, enroute home from the Indian Territory.

Mrs. J. P. Thomas and children of St. Louis, came in on today's train. Mrs. Thomas will stay some time for the benefit of her health.

Laura Allen, a pleasant young lady of Ft. Scott, Kan., came in on this morning's train and will stay two months in search of health.

The many friends of Mrs. Ernest Barr, nee Miss Tot Carroll, will be delighted to know of her return. She is visiting the family of her grandfather, Capt. John Carroll, at Carroll Farm.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Chief of Police Dale received a letter today from T. S. Walker, of Lowry City, Mo., which states that Davis, the man who was arrested here a few days ago for stealing a horse, has pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years. It will be remembered that Davis traded the stolen horse to Mr. Saunders, the Hartsville liveryman.

Louis Lorch, the popular commission merchant of 112 and 114 South Main Street, St. Louis, has today engaged S. S. Sternberg, of Fort Smith, as manager of his business at this place. Mr. Lorch will buy eggs, chickens, hides, etc., for cash, and is able and will pay such prices that it will be to the interest of our farmers to raise greater quantities of country produce and sell it right here. G. W. Martin is still hustling for him. We wish the St. Louis merchant every success and know that from now on this point will ship more produce than ever.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhea, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by H. T. Pendergrass, Druggist.

J. C. Clark, better known as "Buttermilk" Clark, who is now living in Oklahoma, frequently regales his Eureka Springs friends with letters and postal cards written in verse. The lines below were penned by him and addressed to H. T. Pendergrass: Very much I'd love to see you, Shake a paw that don't deceive you; Gaze around the bottles over, Drug or nostrum, powders—Dover, Where from quinine to leprosy, Hydrages, myrrh and origanum, Where in Latin blind inscription You put up M. D.'s prescriptions; Drugs to heal, to quell, allure What the Basin fails to cure.

He might have continued this poem with two lines about like these: "When it's failed is powerfully self-when it's made a friend it's always help."

FROM SATURDAY'S DAILY.

Thirty-four people came in on the last two trains.

W. H. Jamison came in this morning on business from Kansas City.

Miss Laura Carter is a charming young lady visitor who arrived this morning from Monett, Mo.

The Crescent's regular weekly hop occurred last night with quite a large attendance. A pleasant time is reported.

W. S. Brite of the firm of Campbell, Wilson & Co., of Monett, Mo., came in today and will stay about two weeks.

Miss Kate Connelly is a pleasure seeker in our city. She arrived on this morning's train from Waco, Tex.

Mrs. Drew Prewitt, of Fort Worth, Tex., arrived on the morning train. She will stay about a month for pleasure.

Mrs. J. T. W. Tillar and daughter, Idee, of Little Rock, Ark., came in this morning and will stay some time in search of health.

L. Kay Grundy and wife, prominent people of St. Joseph, Mo., came in this morning and registered at the Crescent. They will remain about a month.

Everybody is invited to go and hear Rev. J. B. Cole, one of Texas' best preachers, at the Main Street Mission tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 p. m. You can't afford to miss it. Go!

L. N. Byrd and wife, of Greenville, Tex., arrived on the morning train and will be here two weeks for the benefit of their health. Mr. Byrd is a prominent Greenville attorney.

M. Griffith, a stockman of Lane, Kan., arrived this morning and will stay two weeks buying up cattle. He was accompanied by J. S. Owens, who is also a stockman of that place.

Prof. R. L. Hood and wife, of 202 West 8th Street, Austin, Tex., came in this morning and will remain here a while for health. Mr. Hood is principal of Hood's Seminary, a private school for girls, of that city.

Although Mrs. T. E. Porch is at home, yet elsewhere in this issue we publish a letter from her which was written while she was at Colorado Springs. The letter is descriptive of the Childs-Drexel home for disabled Union printers.

Dr. R. S. James, at a meeting of the School Board two nights ago, resigned his position as one of the school directors. The doctor says that a multiplicity of other duties left him insufficient time to perform those devolving upon a school director. His successor has not been elected yet, but probably will at the next meeting of the board.

Georgia melons are shipped to Arkansas and sold in the markets alongside of the native melon, and at a profit. It is the early crop of melons that pays, and if truck farmers in this locality would plant a little earlier there would be no demand for Georgia melons. The Arkansas product is much better, and the only excuse for shipping melons into this state is the fact, that the early market is not supplied.

This is a great city for the commercial men. They come here at all times of the year by the "quiere," "bundle," and "bale." About a "bale" of them came in today, some on business and some for pleasure. Among them were Frank Garrison; Robt. H. Leach, a representative of the Mercantile Cigar Co.; Ben Glaze, with the Horse Shoe Tobacco Co.; and T. F. Ralph, all of St. Louis, and P. L. Maxwell, a dry goods salesman of Waco, Tex. Many of these men are well known in our city, all of them being quite prominent in commercial circles.

We are under obligations to Louis Lorch, the St. Louis commission merchant who has a branch house here, for a statement of the shipments of live poultry, cattle and eggs made

The Eureka Springs TIMES-ECHO contains a well-written editorial showing that the demonization of silver was not responsible for the fall in the price of wheat.—Arkansas Gazette.

Hawley & Co. in the postoffice lobby received and opened a large shipment of Blanke Bros.' candies, and now have them on sale. These candies are justly popular with those who love the purest and best, and Hawley & Co. have always been noted for keeping a perfect assortment of them, pure and fresh.

from this place between September 1, 1894, and August 1, 1895, a period of eleven months. There have been 351 carloads of cattle, 375 coops of turkeys, 2,020 coops of geese, 10,098 coops of chickens and 14,015 cases of eggs. But few people realize what 14,015 cases of eggs really mean. It means 420,450 dozens, or 5,045,400 single eggs. This is a good showing, and gives evidence that Eureka Springs is a shipping point for produce of no small proportions. It is needless to say that Mr. Lorch handled a large part of all this.

ANNUAL LETTER

Extracts from an Article that will Interest Lovers of Good Roads.

Recommendations and Suggestions from the President of the Bridge Co.

[Below we publish some extracts from the annual letter of the president of the Bridge Company, which was read before the meeting of the stockholders held in this city last week.—Ed.]

To the Stockholders of the Kings River and Osage Bridge Co.:

Before entering upon the pleasant task, to which I have given much thought, I desire to congratulate you upon the amount and kind of work you have accomplished during the first year of your corporate existence and the substantial progress you have made towards securing the object for which you were organized. You have completed and nearly paid for two magnificent bridges, covering a total length of 784 feet, which, by their presence, practically eliminate both Kings and Osage Rivers as physical obstructions in the route between Eureka Springs and Berryville. You have developed a public demand and since the completion of the bridges, demonstrated the necessity for a good road on that route, which you have practically laid out and in such a way as to furnish inspiration and encouragement, resulting in a large amount of work being done on it. Indeed, the whole enterprise, so far, has been distinguished by that broad public spirit which alone unifies a community and builds up a commonwealth.

conveniences, furnishes its best evidence that its citizens are enlightened and up-to-date in the march of progress. Another fact in this connection is this: In no way can a community enhance its private wealth so surely and rapidly as by supplying itself with a high grade of public conveniences, such as fine roads, bridges, schools, electric lights, water supply, etc. Fine houses, teams, railroads and people follow these things as naturally and inevitably as prosperity follows industry, and if our State ever takes the place to which her natural advantages entitle her, her people must travel the same road those of other States have done, who, with far poorer advantages and starting later, have at date left her "out of sight" in ability to attract capital and settlers. It is not her "war record" nor yet the "coon skin" or "fiddle," nor the poverty of the interesting family that all our State and makes the "traveller" hesitate to dismount and accept the genuine offer of genuine hospitality, but it is the hole in the roof. Who knows but the only "spare bed" may be located directly under it? And my friends, until Arkansas can offer suitable, proper and evident protection to all the interests she invites so cordially, she cannot but expect the belated traveler will "move on" musing as he goes, on the social conditions which cannot "turn the tune" and the natural wealth which must exist in a country which can make possible and sustain such mistaken contentment.

As an aid in shaping our judgment as to the best policy to be pursued for the year that is before us, as well as to show the means by which it can be best brought about, a short history or study of how our past year's work was done, may be of value. You will recall that over a year ago when I first called your attention to the fact that a bridge or bridges over Kings River could be built without county aid, how wild, not to say foolish, even, the proposition seemed, especially in view of the panic then in full force and the great scarcity of money in the community at that time.

While the above refers more particularly to the bridges and last year's work, it is all equally applicable, and more so to the road and the coming year's work, for valuable as the bridges are conceded to be, their reflex influence upon the values of farm and town property, as well as their net paying power from toll, is but a part of what it would be with a fine, properly constructed—not merely passable—road to and from them. I say "properly constructed," for in this country, while we have the best possible road material, without necessary grades and washing rains, unless it is properly put together, it results in a constant bill of expense. It costs but a trifle, if any more, to build it properly as otherwise, but it must be done by those who know how. It is not every one who can dig and scrape dirt and gravel that can build a road, any more than can every man who can quarry and carry rock build a durable stone wall. A road cannot be built in "patch work." To be done properly it must be done "from the bottom up" in sections to stand. Some sections cost more than others, for various reasons, but all must be gone over systematically and carefully, when if properly done it will stand both rain and wear and be good, with little cost for repairs. This is shown by our experience with our Sanitarium roads, which are almost identical in material and grades, and they have stood heavy wear for about three years with little deterioration. As to the situation and relative interests of the Bridge and Road Companies, each is simply and practically a part of the other. Every bridge stockholder is a road stockholder, and every road stockholder is a bridge stockholder.

I will say that I can see no reason why it may not all be realized in the coming year, so that we can have the presence and use of an elegant road or drive in which we can all take pride and a safely paying investment for those who put their means into it. To accomplish this, however, will require the fullest co-operation of both the road and bridge interests, both in raising the means, in planning the improvements, so they will control and develop the patronage to its fullest extent. The least that can be done to insure this result will be to build the road as soon as possible on the route surveyed from the forks of the old roads at Jackson's "Grand View" to the line beyond the Payne farm, or better across Gossage's farm to his east line, or still better, to the jog in the wire road near Joab Johnson's house, which will carry it practically over the bad grades, shorten the route to the minimum and control the revenue for the whole distance between here and Berryville. This road should be put in three sections with culverts, gutters, etc., in the best manner—the trees trimmed and the right of way beautified as much as possible with the means at hand as far as we go. The sections naturally divide themselves, into the first, from Jackson's to the Kings River bridge; the second between the bridges, and the third from the Osage bridge to or through the Gossage farm. I would recommend that a toll house and gate and camp house be built at this end of the Kings River bridge, and the stock yard property on this side fenced or prepared so as to accommodate stock, and a house and land enough to till to pay a gate keeper and family for collecting the toll the year round. The picnic grounds should be improved and beautified, a driving shed put up, and as soon as the first section of road is completed, open them by a grand picnic or celebration so as to add its revenue for "stand" privileges and toll to the construction fund. My reason for improving the grade from Grand View to the bridge first is because that done, the relative grade question on the several roads between here and Berryville will be forever settled and at the same time a suitable road and route for popular pleasure, riding and driving from Eureka Springs will be created, toll for which will alone more than pay interest on its cost. The easy grade and good road up the mountain; the shorter distance and the elimination of the fords will control the heavy traffic from the East especially.

With the money in hand we could keep a competent road builder or contractor and teams constantly and systematically at work and he could work in to advantage all local subscriptions of labor, teams or material we could secure, and at any time we could get them. No mistake, however, must be made in selecting the road master, or "boss," or contractor, for at this point if any is the waste in all this kind of work, by either letting too high or in having the work done at some kind of disadvantage and so wasting time material and money. Invariably in these cases, results are unsatisfactory. It is the old story, only competent, experienced men should be in charge.

Finally in forecasting the future, with the rapid, and I trust permanent improvement of finances in the East, and the fact that this especial section is now well before capitalists both in the East and in England, with a view and prospect of a better parative early date, I feel that we have only to stand shoulder to shoulder in the interests of first-class improvements only, and we shall astonish ourselves with results and not have to wait for the next generation either.

CHAS. E. DAVIS, M. D.,
Pres. K. R. & O. B. Co.

Will Make an Effort to Arouse the Interest of the Railway Companies.

A called meeting of the Board of Trade was held last night at Z. P. Freeman's office, for the purpose of discussing plans to secure the location here of the National Teacher's home. President B. J. Rosewater occupied the chair, and Secretary J. T. Spring was present.

The members examined the plans for the building with a great deal of interest, and all united in declaring that the home would be a great thing for this city if its location could be secured here.

Dr. Chas. E. Davis was present, representing the Sanitarium interests, and he pledged himself and colleagues to do all in their power toward satisfying the committee on location.

The co-operation of the Eureka Springs Railway and also of the Frisco railway was deemed indispensable, and the chairman appointed Dr. Davis a committee to interview Gen. Clayton and solicit his assistance.

Our Board of Trade, while not seemingly a very active body, has originated most of the substantial improvements here, and it usually succeeds in what it undertakes. We trust its interest will bring this matter to a favorable consummation.

For more than a hundred years the Shakers have been studying the remedial properties of plants. They have made many discoveries, but their greatest achievement was made in the Shaker Cordial, which contains a potent food and is a digestible and effective in removing distress after eating, and creates an appetite for more food so that eating becomes a pleasure. Pale, thin people become plump and healthy under its use. It arrests the wasting of consumption.

There never has been such a step forward in the cure of indigestion as this Shaker Cordial. Your druggist will be glad to give you a little book descriptive of the product.

Dr. R. G. Floyd happened to a painful though not very serious accident this afternoon on the mountain. He was in his buggy and driving along in a slow trot, when the king bolt, which was broken, came out and the vehicle came uncoupled. The doctor's face and one of his legs were bruised quite considerably. Only for the fact that his mare is not easily frightened, the accident might have resulted in something more than bruises for the doctor. When the buggy came uncoupled, Dr. Floyd held to the lines and was dragged a short distance, but finally succeeded in bringing the mare to a standstill.

Figures Which Ought to Put Eureka Springs in the Lead.

The Matter of Transportation Alone Should Give Us the Teachers' Home.

Editor Times-Echo:—

In the matter of offering advantages to such institutions as the National School Teachers' Home, Eureka Springs is in much better shape than would appear at first sight.

While she cannot contribute as much cash directly as some other communities, for the reason (among others) that she has recently supplied herself with elaborate water and sewer systems, which advantages, supplementing her splendid natural conditions, she can offer, and can afford what cannot be had elsewhere at any rate or price.

Two items alone, properly considered, place her way ahead of her present competitors, viz.: Location and relative cost of living. To properly study the former, connect Salt Lake City and Chattanooga—the extreme competing points east and west—by an air line from imaginary axis east and west, bisecting the country on the proper latitude for this purpose, and for a north and south one draw one from Chicago—our north central metropolis—and San Antonio—the Southern competing place—and we have fair divisions of the United States. The point of bisection of these axes would represent the average or ideal location in the United States. In this case, which is between here and Springfield, Mo. The nearer this point the home is located, the less the total cost of transportation for its guests, and the relative distances removed from this point represent the relative extra cost of transportation for the whole interest—which, when removed is practically negligible.

Let us take a large portion of the proper patrons from the opposite side of the United States.

To illustrate this, with this ideal location represented by 0, each average trip ticket would be added to about as follows, (with a corresponding amount of time in which to travel the distance represented by the extra fare): Eureka Springs would add about $4, San Antonio about $25, Chattanooga about $12, Colorado Springs about $23, Salt Lake City not far from $40. This, added to each average ticket, with 500 patrons whose stay at the home would average two months, which is a liberal time allowed, would give 3,000 trips per year, which, multiplied by the above figures respectively would give about what the total interest of the association would have to pay, more or less, if located at each point. Thus the total cost of transportation per year for the teachers to and from the home, if located at Salt Lake City, would be say $120,000; at Colorado Springs, upon same basis, about $69,000; San Antonio, $75,000; Chattanooga, $36,000; Eureka Springs, $12,000. To put these places upon an equality in this respect would require bonuses or funds at each place, the interest of which would pay these differences at 10 per cent. With Eureka Springs as 0, Chattanooga would need $24,000 difference or $240,000 bonus; Colorado Springs, $570,000; Salt Lake, $1,200,000, and San Antonio, $750,000.

These figures may seem large, but a careful study will show that they are legitimate and exact, so far as they are not prohibitive to the distant portions of the country.

A careful comparison of the relative cost of living gives equally or more surprising results. Take Eureka Springs and Colorado Springs, and the universal experience of all who have lived at both places, under similar circumstances, give the relative cost at the two places at from 25 to 50 per cent. greater at Colorado Springs—living that costs $10 per week at Colorado Springs corresponds exactly to what is secured here at from $5.50 to $7.50. But as this home proposes to furnish living at bottom-low figures, for our purpose I will figure the difference in the cost of living at the two places at 50 cents per week on canned goods alone—the price of the cans and transportation at cost to Colorado Springs, leaving out of consideration the fresh quality of the fruit, etc. At 50 cents extra cost per week per each person gives $2 per month, or $24 per year per person. For 500 persons it gives the net cost of feeding the home on canned goods at Colorado Springs over the cost at Eureka Springs of $12,000. I think there is an equal or greater difference than the above with Salt Lake City and San Antonio, and probably Chattanooga. But enough of this.

There are so many things to be considered in locating these large institutions that so long as we strive to make our town attractive and keep it clean and healthful, as we now can, we are wealthy even with empty pockets, and with a kind of wealth that will ere long be appreciated and command its price.

Very truly,

CHAS. E. DAVIS.

Vacation

Is at hand and is gladly welcomed by all, especially those whose duties in life have caused them to greatly run down their system to meet the requirements, physical and mental, forced upon them. With these and others, it is important, whether at home, at the seashore or in the country, that some thought be given to diet, and as further assistance to Nature, a good building-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla had best be resorted to. If the digestion is poor, liver deranged and frequent headaches seem to be the rule, Hood's will change all this and enable everyone to return to their home and business in a refreshed state of mind and bodily health.

A FALSE REPORT.

Eureka Springs' Sewerage is Not Defective, as Figures Below Show.

There are but Very Few Fever Cases in the City, as Interviews Show.

There seems to be a large number of visitors who have the opinion that there is an unsanitary condition of our little city, and that this condition arises from faulty sewerage. This is entirely untrue, for no city in the land has a more perfect system of sewerage than Eureka Springs has. To be sure, every residence is not connected with the main sewers, but scavengers do the work that the sewer fails to do, and we are morally certain that there is no cleaner city than we have.

But as the report had gone out that we had defective sewers that were causing a deal of sickness and a great number of deaths, we took the trouble to look up the deaths which have occurred among the resident population, for the past five months, and below we give the number, age and cause of death:

ADULTS.	AGE.	CAUSE.
1	82	Peritonitis
1	62	Ulceration of bowels
1	53	Ulceration of stomach
1	45	Constipation of bowels
1	33	Inflammation of stomach
1	12	Consumption
INFANTS.
AGE.	MOS.	CAUSE.
2	15	Stillborn
1	15	Meningitis
1	30	Typho-malarial fever
1	3	Congestion of brain
1	2	Cholera Infantum
1	5	Meningitis
1	4	Meningitis
1	2	Cholera Infantum
1	4	Dysentery and Hooping Cough

This does not look much like we had defective sewers, does it?

Why it is that people will circulate such reports, is one of the unexplained mysteries, and will probably never be known until the day when the secrets of men's hearts shall be laid open and bare.

The report also carried with it the statement that everybody here had the mountain fever. We interviewed every physician, except one, and every druggist in the city, and if the fever at all exists to any appreciable extent they did not know of it. That there is some fever here is true, but we have less of it than any place of a like size. Every physician we interviewed said that wherever there had been rainy, damp weather like we have had here, there was more or less fever.

There are four drugstores here, and any one of them will tell you that if they had to depend alone upon their prescription business for a living they would starve. In order to satisfy ourselves as to the fever cases in town, we asked each of the druggists yesterday how many fever prescriptions they had filled the day before, and got the following: Bellahamer filled none; Porch & Crook filled four; Weaver filled two; and Pendergrass filled three. This does not look much like everybody had the fever, does it?

The Times-Echo and Pensions.

For something like the multifarious time (we don't know what that means, and we don't believe anybody else does, either, but we saw the word the other day and the connection in which it was used led us to believe it meant "a whole passel," as it was applied to those in favor of sound money, and we know there is "a whole passel" of people built that way); for something like the multifarious time, we say, we will define our position on the pension question. This will be entirely unnecessary to any man of ordinary intelligence who has lived in or around Eureka Springs for any length of time, but as new people are continually coming, and we are continually being misrepresented by honest fools and intelligent scoundrels, some of the new people may actually think that we hate, loathe, despise, dislike, abhor, every pensioner, and would actually cut their throats if we dared. There are really some people whom, we believe, stand ready to trade their souls to the devil, if His Satanic Majesty would only in return take away the business and popularity of the TIMES-ECHO. We are powerfully happy to state that the number of these green-eyed skunks is extremely limited. In fact, a one-armed man could count them on his fingers, and then have fingers to spare. They have tried every way imaginable to make others, especially Republicans and old soldiers, dislike our paper and to take away our influence and business. It has been of no avail, so far as gaining the end sought. The TIMES-ECHO is more popular and is better liked today than it has ever been, and the immense amount of work that has lately been, and is now being turned out of our job department, is a sure index to the fact that our business is not on the wane.

We have written this long preface in order to show to any new people, who do not know all that is under the surface, that there is a reason for misrepresenting us on the pension question.

We have said time and again in plain and unmistakable terms through the columns of the TIMES-ECHO and in private conversation that we are thoroughly in favor of the Government paying a pension to every soldier who fought to preserve the Union, and who by reason of the service rendered his country, was disabled by wound or whose health was impaired. We have been equally plain, though, in stating our objections to pensions being paid to able-bodied, healthy men who have not had a day's sickness in years or to deserters, camp-followers and men who never heard a gun fire, except it was from a gun.

That is exactly where we stand, and that is where every honest pensioner stands, too, and more than one of them has said as much to us.

THE Fayetteville Democrat announces that it has received another proposition from the "Sound Money Committee" to furnish supplements, advocating the gold standard, free, and says it has no faith in the patriotism of such men, and that the Democrat would refuse to use the matter sent out by this committee if it was a gold standard paper. There is no good reason why a newspaper should refuse printed matter advocating principles in line with its policy, simply because it is offered free of charge. Bro. Marrs is a curiosity in the way of an editor if he insists on paying for something that an other fellow is trying to give him. We are either afraid his delinquent subscribers have been paying up, or that he has missed his calling.

IN HIS speech at Rogers, according to the Democrat, Mr. Bryan said that no power on earth in heaven or in hell, could induce him to vote for a gold-bug for President. And this is the kind of Democrat the free silver Democrats are running after! He is simply no Democrat at all who stands ready to bolt his party as soon as it takes one step which he does not approve. Bro. Butler has put himself on record, though, for, in speaking of Mr. Bryan's assertion, he says he is a Democrat now and forever, "one and inseparable." That is the right kind of Democracy, and, of course, Bro. Butler will support a gold-bug for President, for one is sure to be nominated.

WHAT are we to look for next? It is said that the Little Rock Press is to be an advocate of sound money. We would as soon have expected to see St. Patrick in the role of a snake charmer. Strange things are really happening every day, and by the time the State Democracy adopts another platform, free silver will have been left so far in the rear that the man who would offer a free, unlimited and independent resolution will feel as lonesome as a one-legged man at a kicking match.

A MAJORITY of the Democratic county chairmen of Oregon have declared against a convention to take action on the silver question this year. And yet Oregon might naturally be supposed to be far more deeply interested in movements to aid the silver mine owners than some of the States which have taken such action.—Bentonville Sun.

Guess you are right, Bro. Cross. In all probability Oregon as a whole is "deeply interested in movements to aid the silver mine owners," but you failed to "suppose" that a majority of the Democratic county chairmen might happen to be sensible men. That is really the first supposition that suggests itself.

WHENEVER you get a free silver man or paper to talking about the money question they will swear that times are hard, money scarce and the country is going to rack, but just get one of them to talking about political parties and he will as vehemently swear that times are improving rapidly, and money is more plentiful, and all because of a Democratic administration. Strange, isn't it?

THE whole number of citizens in the United States liable to military duty is given at 9,948,000. It would not be difficult to recruit from this force an army of a million or two men if an emergency should arise to demand their services.

THE cry for a Western man for President comes almost entirely from the free silver press. It may not be a requisite, but it would be a point in his favor if he owned a silver mine.

"A UNITED effort for good roads and diversified farming," says the Stuttgart-Free Press, "would benefit the State wonderfully and bring in thousands of new people."

ALLEN G. THURMAN says 300 of the 550 Ohio Democratic convention delegates are silver men, while Cal Brice says 450 are administration sound money men.

"POPULISM had almost flickered out in Arkansas until the late silver craze lent a new puff to smoldering coals," says the Johnson County Herald.

ONE of the largest corn crops ever raised in Illinois is anticipated this year.

THERE were 225 failures in the United States during the week just closed.

THE free silver fallacy vanishes as the light of investigation is turned on.

THE ATLANTA bull fights will take place anyway, it is said,

OUR MOUNTAIN CITY

It Compares Favorably with Any Other Health Resort.

Rev. J. B. Cole Calls Eureka Springs a "City Near to Nature's Heart."

Denton (Tex.) News.

Eureka Springs, July, 1895.

Editor News:—

According to my promise I will try to tell you something of our trip to this place, as well as our experience since arriving here.

I left Plano on the 11th inst., and met Mrs. Cole and the children at Sherman. The rains of the night before had flooded the lowlands and overflowed the streams. But we made good time to Paris, where we waited two hours to board the Frisco train. We traveled all night through the Indian Territory and Arkansas. Morning came upon us about Fayetteville, Ark.

We then had a most enjoyable ride through the hilly portion of Northwest Arkansas. Everything was joyful from the plentiful rain, and presented a most pleasant appearance. Orchards, meadows, fields and woodlands greeted us at every turn, and afforded contrast and variety sufficient to delight the most fastidious.

Arriving at Seligman, Mo., we awaited the morning train to Eureka Springs, which rolled into the station at 9:30 o'clock. The distance from this point to the Springs is eighteen miles and a most interesting ride. The train makes very slow time and affords an excellent opportunity for the passenger to observe the ever-varying scenery. I cannot describe it, but suffice to say that I have seen some of the finest natural scenery in this country and while this is not so extensive, nor yet of such great altitude, it compares favorably with anything I have ever seen.

Arriving at the depot, the "green" visitor has a feeling akin to the fellow who seeks his pocket and finds for the first time that his pocket-book is not—a kind of "what-will-I-do-with-myself?" sensation. But all this is soon dispelled by a plain honest "How do you do?"

This is not a "fast" place, but on the contrary is a quiet, sober, moral town of about 4,000 people.

The residences and business houses are plain, substantial structures, the latter generally being stone and the former wood.

The town is located among the wildest mountain scenery, peaks, ridges, hills, gulches, coves, cliffs, hollows and vales making up the places of habitation. There is no natural level space. The virgin forest of pine, oak, walnut and other timbers lies hard by the very busiest street. Lofty pines wave their long shadows over hotels, residences, streets and drives. This is really a city "Near to Nature's Heart."

The springs are legion, there being more than fifty in the immediate neighborhood of the city. The water is perhaps as nearly pure water as can be found on the globe.

The formation is concrete, of red clay and gray sandstone and flint. The solid rock is gray sandstone of late formation.

The springs generally issue about fifty feet from the base of the hills. The water is cold and satisfies thirst readily. No ill results follow overdrinking. The different springs afford different temperatures, and perhaps a little different properties.

Some of the springs have been much changed in appearance. The natural surroundings have been broken up and nice terraces, walls, steps, basins and seats have been supplied. This is especially so with the Basin, Sweet, Crescent, Dairy and Belding. Other springs have been somewhat improved, but only enough to render them easy of access. But many fountains issue forth amid nature's native heath. Indeed we find it very difficult to reach some of the Fairies, Mystics and Minne-Ha-Has that come gurgling, laughing, whispering, talking, creeping and leaping from cliffs and caves and rocky dells.

Secret of Beauty

Is health. The secret of health is the power to digest and assimilate a proper quantity of food. This can never be done when the liver does not act its part.

The most really natural and romantic place we have visited is Moss Spring. It is two miles from town. The water issues from a jutting cliff and falls over a table rock into a city separate streams. The spring is in size from a small brook to a half inch cord. The scenery around this spring is most interesting. The very stones seem as moss-covered volumes of history in which are recorded the annals of solitude. The templed groves of oak and pine stand like great philosophers and wave their leaves, which are nature's scrolls of science. Beside these, growing amid the rocks, peeping from crevices, hiding at the gnarly roots of trees are the wild flowers and ferns—nature's books of poetry. Amid all this the falling water transforms its rock home into one great organ from which it makes the sweetest music.

As I stood and looked and thought I was at once delighted, enchanted and awed into holy reverence. How beautiful, how wonderful and how charming the works of God! There, in that solitude, is no suffering, no sorrow, no sin. There, no blood stains, no strife, no envy, no malice, no slander, no falsehood and no wrong. This thread of fancy still puls at my soul, but I must stop for a common life.

As I stand in this scene I must say I am fondly expecting another visit with holier and more beautiful scenes than these. In a fountain where all the surroundings are glorious, a world where there is no suffering, sorrow, sickness, pain nor death.

From this bright leaf in nature's book I have received fresh inspiration to expect a world where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. There sin will no more wrong the soul. There loving, trusting friends never will be transformed into wicked, worrying, fretting foes. There vile hate and the forked tongue of snaky slander never come. There the hand of disease will no more bind us to a stony bed, while the vultures of pain tear away comfort, happiness, usefulness and life. There we will dwell in mingled bliss with the pure and good of every kindred tribe and nation.

Washington Correspondence.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12th.—Secretary Morton believes in practicing what he preaches. Several weeks ago he publicly advised young men to buy farms in Virginia, because of the cheapness of land in that State. To show that he considered that advice good, he proposes to buy a farm in the State himself, and to divide his residence after his return to private life between Nebraska and Virginia. Secretary Morton's good words for Virginia so interested some prominent citizens of the State that he was invited to deliver an address at Manassas, near the famous battle field of that name. He has accepted the invitation and while there he will decide about the purchase of a farm in that locality, which is only 26 miles from Washington and connected by rail.

A great deal of silly twaddle was nipped in the bud by the in modern politics. They are an ungrateful lot too, for most of them are under the heaviest obligation to Quay.

There is little probability that the vacancy upon the bench of the United States Supreme Court, made by the death of Justice Jackson, of Tennessee, will be filled before Congress meets, the position being too important to be filled by a recess nomination which the Senate might decline to confirm after the new Justice had taken part in the work of the Court. The absence of prominent Democrats from Washington makes all the talk about a successor to the late Justice Jackson nothing but idle speculation. Because President Cleveland nominated Justice White, of Louisiana, to the last vacancy after two New Yorkers had failed of confirmation, the cablegram received by the Department of State from the United States Consul at Port Louis, Mauritius, stating that he had made arrangements to send Mrs. Waller, wife of the negro ex-consul who is now serving a twenty years sentence in a French prison, and her children, to France, by the steamer leaving there the 20th inst. Of course the pathetic story of this woman and her children being left to starve in a foreign land will continue to be printed in the class of newspapers which prefer mis-statements to facts all the time.

Hon. Chauncey F. Black, of Pennsylvania, who was in Washington for several days in connection with business of the National Association of Democratic Clubs, of which he is President, said of the Republican fight in his State: "The Democrats, while the funeral is none of theirs, are sincerely desirous to see Senator Quay triumph over the combine that is trying to compass his political annihilation. I don't think that Democratic well wishing will be of any benefit to Quay; on the country, it will add to his load. Senator Cameron is another load—a good bit heavier one than the sympathy of the Democrats. Thus handicapped Quay has a desperate fight on his hands, but my belief is that he will win. The character of the men fighting him is enough to put the people on Quay's side. They represent all that is detestable and corrupt speculators now say that the President will fill this vacancy from New York, which is, of course, more or less probable, but all the same it is a guess. Three members of the present Supreme Court—Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Shiras and White—were appointed by President Cleveland, and the appointment which the late Justice Jackson received in the last days of the Harrison administration should properly have been made by him. Thus what Mr. Harrison deprived him of Providence has restored to the President. Understand, I do not mean to imply that the selection of Justice Jackson was not a good one. On the contrary, it was an excellent one, and might easily have been made by President Cleveland, who had during his first administration made Mr. Jackson a United States Circuit Judge. Only it was not regarded as just the proper thing for an out-going Republican President to fill such an important place, belonging to the Democrats, when he knew that the Democrat selected could not take his seat upon the bench before a Democratic came in.

Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, passed through Washington on his way home from New York. He was asked who would be nominated for President by the Democrats. He replied: "I do not venture a positive opinion on that subject. Personally I am for Gorman. I shall be with him first and last, and have strong hope of his being nominated."

COLONEL HENRY ABBOTT, Chief of Army Engineers, will retire on tomorrow.

How About It.

During the present administration times have been harder and money scarcer, publicly and privately, than for years before, and it is only since a Republican House has been elected that the factories have resumed operation and business men have confidence to go ahead.—Stuttgart Free Press.

Mar, alive! This kind of gall deserves a chromo. The election of a Republican Congress occurred nearly a year ago, and it is the revival of business is due to this election, it would have come in 1894, instead of now. Republican editors and speakers have denied all along that there had been any revival of business. It is no trouble to lay our hands on Republican papers not a month old, which obstreperously affirm that times are hard as a millionaire's heart.

This admission from the Free Press is actually refreshing, but we fail to see how Bro. Matthews will get out of the predicament it has placed him in. He admits that there is a revival of business, and says it is because a Republican Congress was elected last November, while other Republicans declare there is no revival of business, even though a Republican Congress has been elected. How about it, anyway.

Honest Public Speaker?

The Arkansas Press is fighting a hard fight for the free coinage of silver. The Press is not influenced by a fat federal office or gold bug banker; it is an honest public speaker and should be read by the masses.—Hardy Herald.

Yea, verily. It is a hard fight and a hopeless one, too. But if the cause of free silver depended in the least upon such papers as the Press, it would have already been covered up in its grave. Its entire work has been one continual round of vituperation, abuse and contemptible flings at every man or newspaper that refused to agree that the cause rose in the editorial rooms of the Press and set in the counting room. "Honest public speaker," forsooth! If there ever was a newspaper that has been unfair, it has been the Press. We have never seen a real argument in its columns. If its editorial writer is able to produce one on any subject, articles that contain just such sentiments as the clipping above always crowd them out.

We have taken particular notice of the first page of the Press, especially since the money question has been the all-absorbing topic, and to a man, all Democrats who have been single standard advocates have been characterized either as holders of fat federal offices, knaves who have been bought by bankers and Englishmen, or traitors in the camp. This is not journalism, but the Press cares not a straw for that. The Press is the outcome or result of a few disgruntled, hard-to-please politicians and croakers, who always find fault with any newspaper that refuses to pander to their whims. If they are ever whipped back into line the Press will cease publication, for its reason for existing will have disappeared.

Any newspaper or business that tries to live upon the demerits, mistakes or misfortunes of a competitor, instead of upon its own intelligence, excellence and judgment, will sooner or later cease to exist.

The course that the Press has pursued and is now pursuing will and does lower it in the estimation of all fair-minded, right-thinking people, and any cause it may espouse will lose more than it will gain.

REPUBLICANS say that the hard times and the recent panic are the direct result of Democratic mismanagement. If this be true, what caused the panic and hard times in 1873, when the Republicans had control of the Government? Was it Republican mismanagement? Since for the goose is sauce for the gander, you know. Every free silver Republican will quickly say that the demonetization of silver did it, but we fail to see a hole where the "gold bug" Republican can get out.

WE ARE not in favor of one man monopolizing any particular office. In most instances, even in the Democratic party, two terms are better than three, and one is better than two, and in the Republican and Populist parties none is better than one. But at present we know only one man whom we would gladly accept an opportunity of voting to place in office for a third term. That man is the present President of the United States—Grover Cleveland. He is the greatest man on the American Continent, and within twenty years, if no sooner, the very men in his party that now vilify him, will place him close to the top of the list of great men.

The free silver newspapers of Arkansas have for some time been spitting out their venom against everybody who has dared to intimate that the silver craze was losing caste, and now they have an opportunity to belittle Pfeffer for making certain admissions. In an interview the Senator said: "The silver question is the leading question of the hour, but at present the agitation in the West is dying out. This has been strongly marked during the last six or eight weeks. I think it but a temporary check, however, and that the sentiment is strong with the people. Still there are no more public meetings now, and the discussion that continues is put up by the newspapers alone. I think that the silver men in the Democratic and Republican parties will be swamped when it comes to election. They will talk silver, protest their allegiance to silver, and all that, but when the time comes they will grit their teeth and stand their medicine. They will vote with their parties."

THE Democrats of Iowa expressed themselves fearlessly and, although the free silverites may not endorse the platform, they cannot discredit it. "We declare the rescue of the finances of the country from baleful effects of the Sherman law, the repeal of an American federal election law and approval of the principle to be works worthy the history and prestige of the great Democratic party and courageous Democratic administration. We affirm the following portion of the seventh plank of the platform of the last national Democratic convention: 'We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country and to coin both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal and charge for mintage; but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic value and exchangeable alike, or to be adjusted by international agreement or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the payment of debts, and we demand that the paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin.'"

PRINTERS' HOME.

The Beneficent Institution for Union Printers at Colorado Springs.

A Very Interesting Letter About It from Mrs. T. E. Porch, of this City.

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 6, '95.

Editor Times-Echo:—

This morning I am visiting the Printers' Home. The Childs-Drexel Home for Union Printers was dedicated May 12, 1892. It is the first home ever erected by a trade or labor organization for its disabled, infirm or superannuated members. Mr. Childs joined with Anthony Drexel in giving without condition $10,000 to the International Typographical Union. It was the generosity of these two princely philanthropists—princely in the truest sense—which made the founding of the home possible. The beautiful haven of rest for the nerve and brain-tired printer, stands here as a magnificent monument to the munificence of the Union and its benefactors. To the original gift of $10,000, the Union printers have added over $100,000. The home was erected at a cost in excess of $62,000. There are in the home elegantly furnished memorial parlors. I am now writing in the Jefferson Davis parlor, furnished by his younger daughter, Mrs. J. A. Hayes, of Colorado Springs. Over this desk hangs a superb picture with his autograph of the grand old hero of the "Lost Cause." Underneath lies the pipe of peace on a bronze receptacle. Several other pictures adorn the walls, representing fame, war, peace, music, art and poetry in groups taken from celebrated pieces of statuary. The pansy, emblem of remembrance, was the model as to color in the decorations of the room. The San Francisco room, furnished by the Typographical Union No. 21, is located in the square tower. The furniture is all of California redwood.

The home has accommodations for seventy; at present has sixty-two.

The situation could not have been more wisely chosen. The climate is health-giving and the environment scenery is a perpetual inspiration. The home stands on the very summit of a hill, one mile east of Colorado Springs, its base being about 150 feet above the grade level of the city. The building faces the west, and the view takes in the mountains from Castle Rock, thirty miles to the north, to the Spanish peaks, eighty miles to the south. The drainage is excellent. Prospect Lake is near, teeming with trout. Sheltered from the storms by the mountains of the Setting Sun the home of the printers is located in nature's paradise.

Colorado Springs is a city of 1100 inhabitants, and is situated upon a plateau about six thousand feet above sea level, surrounded by mountains and hills, but lies open to the plains on the south and southeast. I am told, and I see it so, every other street is an avenue 140 feet wide. All the streets are at least 100 feet wide. I visited Denver last week. It is a magnificent city of 100,000 inhabitants. It is cut from the whole cloth. The First Baptist Church is a handsome structure. Did not get to hear Dr. Tupper preach, as he had gone East. So I went over to Trinity and heard an Englishman on "Character Growing." He informed us there was no monopoly on it, that it was a free enterprise for all.

The last letter left me at South Cheyenne Canon, and that was where the carriage and driver left me, too. From there I walked up a stairway of 230 steps. Just to the right is Denver Falls. The beautiful crystal waters come dashing, splashing, spattering, chattering and sparkling like melted diamonds in the sunshine over the cascades.

From these I climbed South Cheyenne Mountain to view the sacred spot where H. H. Jackson was buried. Her husband who lives here and is connected with a bank, had her removed to the cemetery. I sat me down to rest on the ruins of the pine log cabin where she was wont to write. Several burro parties passed me on their way to visit the spot where the remains of this sweet spirited woman once lay. When I came down my driver was gone so I plodded on weary and footsore to the car line, one and one-half miles.

I went up on Pike's Peak on the cog road. The view was sublime and beyond description. There was an ocean of billowy clouds spread out below us. Snow all around, clouds below and sunshine above.

I was delighted with my visit to the Garden of the Gods and Grand Canon, and in the grandeur and wonder of the works of the Mighty One round about Manitou.

Obituary.

Mrs. Marie Le Clere Britten died at the Crescent Hotel, August 1, at the age of 40 years.

The deceased, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mary Le Clere, came to this city July 4th in search of health. She had been in poor health for the past two years, and had traveled most of the time, she having dyspepsia. She was here but a short time when she felt greatly benefited by the water. For many years she had been troubled with her heart, and having such a weak constitution, grew weaker and weaker till she was a victim of death's cold fingers. Living a true Christian's life, she died a true Christian's death.

She was born in Galveston, Tex., in October, 1855. She was the granddaughter of the late Chas. C. Valley, of Missouri, and the great-granddaughter of the first Governor of Missouri. Her birthplace has always been her home. The deceased possessed a kind, lovable disposition, and was dearly loved by all who knew her. She was the only child of Mrs. Mary Le Clere, her brother having died last September. The dear, loving and untiring mother wither many friends are left to mourn their great and heavy loss. May God be their comfort.

Mrs. Le Clere left Wednesday morning for Galveston with the remains of her daughter which were interred in the Catholic Cemetery. Mrs. Le Clere has the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in this city.

Sweetly are the wild birds singing,
Softly purrs the silvery rill;
Yet, though all around is lovely,
At home 'tis lonely still.

Vainly sunbeams spread before us,
Vainly flowers their scents impart.
We are lonely—desolation
Reigns supreme within our heart.

Ah! how long ere patient waiting,
Waiting that to bear is hard,
Finds in love that cannot alter
Bliss that is a full reward.

Soon, ah soon, this life will vanish;
Hope, on wearied wing, departs
Soon, or we despair will silence
Beats of our weary hearts.

MARIE E. WOOD.

"MESSRS. HERR and Harvey have perfected their briefs," says the Memphis Commercial Appeal, "and one member of the jury, Mississippi, will answer to-day." Kentucky has also answered, also Maryland and Iowa. The jury will be all right when it is polled—the verdict will be the everlasting condemnation of the 16 to 1 heresy. The Populists may answer 10 to 1 in 1896, but no other party will do so.—Arkansas Democrat.

Free coinage at an arbitrary ratio, 16 to 1, 32 to 1, is essentially a protective measure and belongs to the protective system. It is tax levied on the many for the benefit of the few. It is a tax levied on many millions of property in the United States for the enrichment of a few thousand. Like the high protective tariff system, it is a scheme to put up prices by law. "But we must have higher prices if we are ever prosperous," say the free silver people. That is precisely and always the demand of the tariff barons. Whenever the people of any section want special favors and special protection for any product of mine, field or workshop, such benefit being secured at the expense of the whole country, we have protection pure and simple. No Democrat can tolerate such a doctrine.—Arkansas Democrat.
