The Doings that Interest Our Citizens and Visitors.

At the Fair

"Arkansas Day" and "Eureka Springs Day" at the great Louisiana Purchase Exposition, have come and gone, and the hosts of Eureka Springs people who accompanied the Times-Echo's special excursion are now returning from the few days profitably spent at the greatest of modern expositions. Thursday last was the day of fetes, and from early morning until late at night the Arkansas State building was crowded not only by the citizens from within her own borders, but by thousands of northern, western, southern and eastern visitors who were not slow in manifesting their surprise at the wonderful showing of resources which Arkansas has made at this fair. It was also an awakening to many of these who supposed that the mythical slanders regarding Arkansas, and so long published to the outside world were true. There they were received by the most cultured people, and greeted with the genial hospitality that is a southern birthright, and in which the Arkansawyer proved himself to be a past master. This hospitality has become notorious at the great fair, and has brought Arkansas, the Arkansas building and its genial management into great prominence.

"Arkansas Day" is credited with being the most successfully celebrated of any state day so far given at the World's Fair, be it said to her credit. Big red Arkansas apples and Eureka Springs water were distributed on the porticos of the building, and were eagerly sought and relished by the multitude of people. The supply of Eureka Springs water was started on Thursday, and will be continued for the coming week. Thousands of copies of the special World's Fair edition of the Times-Echo are being given out in the most advantageous manner at the Arkansas building, at the Arkansas exhibit in the Mines and Metallurgy Building, and at the public school exhibit in the Palace of Education and Social Economy. We personally watched this distribution both of the water and the special edition of our paper on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week, and we were only able to find four copies in the vicinity of the Arkansas building that had been thrown down or mutilated, while the attendants at the mines and educational exhibits informed us that they were eagerly sought, looked through and carried away by the visitors.

During the busy portion of the day there was a constant crowd in front of the coolers filled with Eureka Springs water, and the comments were of the most pleasing and complimentary nature, and the attendant stated that many of the visitors tendered pay for the draughts, which were declined, with the compliments of Eureka Springs.

The Arkansas building seemed to be the principal point of interest in the plaza of states at the fair the latter part of the week.

The Eureka Springs program on Friday afternoon was carried out very creditably by the young ladies who participated, and while they were disappointed by the absence of Miss Belle Spencer, whom, owing to a telegram from her mother announcing sickness, was unable to attend, their renditions received great praise from the many visitors who were present, and especially from Mr. Mayer, the musical director, and Miss Cage, the hostess of the Arkansas building.

This program was under the direction of Miss Crystal Davis, and she and those who assisted her are entitled to great praise for the interest and pains taken, having made the trip especially to render this program, after having paid a previous visit to the fair.

Mrs. Chas. E. Perkins' vocal solo, "Lullaby of the Night," was the first number on the program, and was met with unstinted applause, but owing to illness she felt unable to respond with a second number.

Two piano solos rendered by Miss Martha Regan were splendidly received, the "Two Larks," and a request solo being her renditions.

Miss Crystal Davis sang to her own accompaniment, Denza's "Sing On," and likewise closed the program with Mascheroni's "Till Death," midst the applause of those present.

We believe we are correct in saying that Eureka Springs was creditably represented. Don't take our word for it. Ask the many other Eurekaites who were in attendance.

Deaf-Mute Institute

The next session of the Arkansas Deaf-Mute Institute opens Oct. 5. Sufficient funds have been provided to run the school until the next legislature meets and everything points to a successful year.

This is a free school provided by the state for the deaf children within her borders. Here they are taken at the age of six and educated and taught trades.

The school has, besides a large industrial department, an art department, a physical culture department and a domestic science department. The choice of such trades as printing, carpentering, cabinet-making, turning, painting, calsmining, paper-hanging, plastering, tailoring, shoemaking and harness-making are given the boys, while the girls are taught dress-making, cooking, house-keeping and all sorts of fancy work.

The aim of the Institute is to turn its boys and girls out into the world independent, self-supporting men and women, whereas without this school they would, in almost every case, have to grow up helpless, dependent heathens in a civilized, Christian land, not even knowing their own names.

Over six hundred boys and girls have gone through this school and come out good citizens. 225 was the roll last session and there are at least 150 more such children in the state growing up in darkest ignorance, who ought by all means be in this school receiving an education.

Reader, help to get these afflicted children into this noble Institution. If you know of one or more such children write at once to Frank B. Yates, Supt., giving him their address. You will receive his appreciation by doing so and you will likely be the means of lifting one or more souls out of darkness. This school is the only hope for the majority of such children. It is not an asylum, but a school, pure and simple, just as the Fayetteville University is a school for the hearing. The pupils go home for their vacation. There are no helpless cripples, or old and infirm, or idiots admitted, only children, as bright and sweet as any children in the world and as dear. They need restoring to society and you can help in this great work.

Sometimes the character of a school needs explaining; the parents need persuading; shown their duty. You may be able to do this. Write for catalogues and be informed fully.

There are 20 teachers employed in regular school departments, and 6 instructors in the industrial department. Besides these, teachers of art, physical culture, domestic science and kindergarten are employed.

The site is a healthful, high elevation just west of the city of Little Rock, and it is a beautiful place.

A regular physician, an aurist and oculist, and a dentist are connected with the school, their services being free to the pupils, and in a well appointed hospital, two good nurses are employed the year round. The little children also have governesses to care for them and the larger ones have supervisors. And remember, all this is free, including books, tuition, board, etc., all absolutely free to the deaf children of Arkansas, with sound minds, between the ages of six and twenty-one. Even traveling expenses and clothing are furnished to those unable to bear these expenses.

If you are the parent of a deaf child, write at once for blanks. If you know of a deaf child growing up in ignorance, go at once, if possible, to visit the parents of this child, and do not rest until you have had it admitted into the Ark. Deaf-Mute Institute. You could hardly do a better thing.

The following is the State Board of Charitable Institutions which has this school under its control: H. C. Tipton, President and Treasurer, Little Rock; E. W. Williams, Forrest City; B. A. Hardy, Monticello; O. B. Gordon, Prescott; C. D. James, Eureka Springs; J. M. Barker, Jr., Atkins; C. F. Greenlee, Brinkley; John H. Page, Sec. and Purchasing Agent, Little Rock.

At Eight O'clock

As we go to press Mr. Duncan is in receipt of a telegram announcing that the "Good Roads Train" will arrive in Eureka Springs at 8:00 tomorrow morning.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

The general reception committee consisting of the Mayor and members of the city council, together with the directors of the Commercial Club will meet the Good Roads train at the depot and escort the visitors to the Auditorium in special car—courtesy of the Citizens Electric Company.

The committee having in charge the national good roads convention which meets at the Auditorium on September 27 have prepared the following interesting program for the occasion:

At 10 o'clock Tuesday morning the convention will be opened with prayer by Rev. Nathaniel Chestnut, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Address of welcome by Hon. C. G. White for the city of Eureka Springs.

Response by Hon. W. H. Moore, president of the National Good Roads association.

Organization of the convention and appointment of committees.

Adjournment for dinner. The afternoon session will be opened with an address by Hon. Martin Dodge, director of the office of public road inquiries, on "Educational and Experimental Work of the Government Division."

Address by M. Schuller, Industrial Commissioner of Rock Island-Frisco System.

Address by Doctor G. E. Ladd, director of the Missouri School of Mines at Rolla, on "Observation of Streets and Paving in European Cities."

Report of committees.

The evening session will be opened with an address by H. V. Lucas, assistant to president of Good Roads National Association.

Address with stereopticon illustrations by Hon. M. O. Eldridge, assistant director of the office of public road inquiries.

The men who will make the speeches are mostly practical road builders and they can get closer to the people interested in this work than the politicians could hope to do.

All the road officials of Carroll, Boone, Marion, Newton, Searcy and Madison counties have been invited to attend the Good Roads Convention here.

Opportunities

For making money by safe investments in mineral and timber land in North Arkansas, are now numerous. If you wish to know about the truth of this statement, address box 413, this city, stating where you can be seen.

GILES E. MILLER,
Editor and Business Manager.

If a newspaper man desires to know how generally his effusions are read, let him print something that is regarded as objectionable to persons who never take his paper or pay him a cent. He will wonder how they know these things were in the paper, but will wonder in vain. There is evidently a vast amount of sponging done. It might be added that he may say nice things about a man for ten years, without a word from him, but make an uncomplimentary notice of one of his wife's aunt's second cousins and he will come in with a club to have the slander corrected.—Ex.

Iroquois Opened

Notwithstanding the fact that the memorial association opposed the re-opening of the Iroquois Theater and that many of the most prominent ministers in Chicago preached against it last Sunday, it was opened Monday, a long line of ticket buyers crowding the box almost the entire day.

Reports of the first performance say that never was a theatrical performance given under greater tension, and that a sigh of relief went up from the managers of the theater, from 1,500 uniformed policemen, from firemen and from 100 players, when the last of the vast audience filed out the doors after the performance.

It is only 263 days since that

December afternoon on which over five hundred lives were lost here, but lights and brilliant colorings have taken the place of blackened walls and charred remains, and the Iroquois, under the name of "The Vaudeville," promises to be as popular as was the old resort.—Arkansas Democrat.

WINE of CARDUI

No. 48 Straight St., GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.

I am pleased to endorse Wine of Cardui as I found it so beneficial to restore my strength after my baby was born. I could not seem to get well enough to be up and able to do my work, and as I had been in bed for six weeks this was rather serious, but soon after I began to use Wine of Cardui I could see that I was beginning to get back my strength. In another week I was able to sit up most of the day and in a month I was able to be up and do most of my work. I think it is splendid medicine for a woman and can certainly give it highest praise.

Mixed His Dates
"Curly" Smith, formerly a prominent merchant of this city, but now one of the leading farmers in the Grindstone Mountain neighborhood, drove into the city early Sunday morning, and commenced to make the rounds of the business houses of the city to which he is a weekly visitor, when he comes to town each Saturday. After calling at several places and finding the doors locked, and few people on the streets, he became puzzled and inquired the reason therefor. When one of his old time friends told him it was Sunday he was loth to believe it, but finally accepted the explanation with an expression in his dry and humorous fashion. He said that he had noticed a number of his neighbors coming to town the previous day but thought they were a day early, and let it go at that. Mr. Smith was doing his usual trading here today; and promising to keep up with father time hereafter.

A man can take a newspaper. It is the cheapest thing he can buy. Every time a hen clucks and lays an egg, his paper is paid for that way. It costs less than a postage stamp—less than to send a letter. It comes every week, rain or shine, calm or cloudy. No matter what happens it enters your home a welcome guest, full of sunshine, cheer and interest. It opens the door of the world and puts you face to face with its people and its great events. It shortens the long winter nights. It is your adviser, gossipier and friend. No man is just to his children who does not give them the local paper. No man is good to himself who does not take a newspaper.—Ex.
