CHAPTER XXII.

THE SUM OF IT ALL.

Time is a great leveler. It is the measure of all things. "Thus," says Shakespeare, "the whirligig of time brings in his revenges." Time, the great consoler. Time, the great anodyne. Time, the great teacher and revealer.

Great indeed was the sensation produced in old Fredericksburg when it became known that the Hon. Jodiah Weeks was under arrest, charged with both thievery and murder, but still greater was the excitement when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. Russell Mason succeeded in getting at the very bottom of the mortgage question, and the evidence secured showed that Jodiah and his son, Noah, first murdered Judge Mason by driving a nail into his skull, and then stole the mortgage, which the old lawyer held upon Blantyre. Noah evaded the officers and made his escape, but the father was sentenced to life imprisonment, after a most sensational trial, lasting over three weeks.

Elias Stigler, who served for four years as postmaster during the reign of the carpet baggers' was tried for aiding the schemes of Jodiah by withholding certain letters written by Russell Mason to James Manning and Judge Scott, but the evidence was not sufficient to convict.

Frank Leonard, alias Rev. Larkin Webb, after serving nearly two terms as sheriff, lost his life while attempting to arrest a drunken negro. He died in great agony, but not before divulging the fact that his real name was Webster Stevens, an illegitimate son of Thaddeus Stevens, the persecutor of the South.

Only a few months after the death of Norman Randall, the beautiful life of Alice Manning faded like a rose under the blast of a winter's wind, and in the land of light and love they became united. Her body

Beneath an arch of orange blossoms, with orange buds in her nut brown hair, beside the man of her choice, stood a meek eyed maid. How strangely still all was. Scarcely a sound could be heard save the minister's solemn words. Even the crickets outside the chapel windows chirped tender love notes; the breezes sighed and murmured in the cedars; the glow worms paled from very reverence. The dainty head dropped lower, the sweet voice softly said, "I will." The minister said: "Whomsoever, therefore, God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." The wedding music throbbed out its cadence "man and wife," "man and wife." Two lives were blended. Two hearts were happy; two souls were one.

The next day Eva Randall became the queen of Blantyre in the person of Mrs. Russell Mason, and Mrs. Randall went to spend her last days in the dear old home, where she had gone fifty years before as the bride of Lemuel Randall.

Such are the tangled threads of life.

The End.

A Tribute.

Our home paper brings us the sad news of the passing of our former beloved pastor and friend.

In the evening of his earthly day, the rest of sleep has come to our pastor beloved D. N. Allen the peaceful sleep whose waking will bring refreshment and a greater strength to begin the new life which waits beyond.

His life here was a beautiful devotion to his Lord and King, never faltering he was a faithful ministering servant for the Lord.

Brilliant and gifted to an unusual degree his sermons were a rare pleasure to listen to.

Friends he numbered by the score, and who that knew him but mourns his loss today.

Will we ever have another D. N. Allen? Kind, and patient, faithful and enduring he labored to the end. And now the Master has

THE TELEGRAM.

A Story in Two Parts.

BY MRS. MAUDE SAMPLES

PART II

Mrs. Wilton's only brother was a bachelor and very rich and he had felt greatly interested in the beautiful child of his sister and offered every opportunity in her favor possible in the way of education and society. Naturally it had taken a great burden off of both parents and helped the child also. Nevertheless it was not to stop at this. Sue was to have all at the death of Uncle Willard, so the will ran, but it never bothered the Wiltons for they were a very pious people and never gave place for lusting after earthly things, although of course they appreciated these things and Sue had often thought in her young girlish heart that some day she would have plenty, and now she thought more about it than ever, even thought if she could tell Jack that she had already gotten the great fortune in her possession it would stop his destined journey at least, and make her happy to have him remain with her always. While she was meditating over this sad parting of her and Jack, her mother came into the room unnoticed and drew her chair up before the window where her darling had been seated more than an hour deep in thought, both of the past and future. She soon discovered the child did not notice her, and would have retraced her steps and left her alone again, but just then a rap at the door attracted the attention of both. Mrs. Wilton arose to answer, but Sue bade her be seated and went quickly to the door fully expecting to greet her lover, but instead there stood a messenger boy holding out a telegram. As he did so, Sue hesitated a moment, wondering if there could be any more sad news in store for her. Now it seemed she had all at present she could contend with or find place for.

"Is this Miss Sue Wilton," he asked somewhat abashed at her hesitation.

"Yes," was the quiet response.

"Well, this here telegram is for you, I s'pose."

Aftermath.

The state papers are saying many nice things about Eureka Springs hospitality to the Club ladies. The following appeared in the Fayetteville Republican: Aside from the regular sessions of the Federation, among the different entertainments given by Eureka citizens in honor of the Federation were the reception at the Crescent Hotel, probably the most elaborate ever given in Eureka, pleasing reception by Mrs. Van Allen, also an informal farewell reception by Col. Waddell and Mrs. Locke, of the Thach Cottage, trolley and tally ho rides. Special mention deserves to be made of the program and exhibits of the public schools of the city also of the Musical Comedy given at the Opera House by the school children on Thursday evening in honor of the Federation. The public schools of Eureka are among the very best in the State. Prof. Barnett, as superintendent, has proven himself the right man in the right place.

The teachers all deserve much credit, but we cannot refrain from making special mention of Miss Vance Moore, who is a great favorite not only in Fayetteville circles but also in Eureka Springs, where she is considered one of the brightest, sweetest girls in the city, and to whose efforts much of the pleasure and success of the Federation is due.

The citizens of Eureka seem to vie with each other in entertaining but the Federation is under special obligations to Mr. Duncan, president of the Commercial League, and Mr. Wood, mayor of the city, and we only voice the sentiments of every woman in the Federation when we say that God might have made more beautiful and picturesque surroundings and a more hospitable people than are found in Eureka Springs, but we think that He never has.

Eureka is probably the best kept town in the state, and to the ladies going from Fayetteville the transition was truly refreshing and delightful.

At some time in the near future the writer hopes to see a civic improvement club organized in Fayetteville and as a model town, which we would do well to imitate, we have only to point to Eureka Springs.

ADDRESS

Delivered to the Graduating Class of the W. H. Reid High School by Dr. Chas. E. Davis, on May 2, 1905.

My dear young friends:

By invitation of your teachers and the board of directors of our city schools it is my pleasant duty to address you on their behalf and that of your parents and friends and to offer you a few words of congratulation on your having successfully completed your course of study in the W. H. Reid High School of Eureka Springs and are able to present yourselves here tonight as a graduating class. You have indeed earned earnest words of congratulation; for to be numbered in the ranks of the graduating class of an institution of learning is indeed a great honor. It is no small matter to have the endorsement and above all the level-headed judgment and fixedness of purpose of which your presence here tonight is prima facie evidence that you possess. Of the thousands in this and similar schools who start in the course how few have the physical stamina and force of character to complete it as you have done. Few realize that it means an average of from eight to ten years of systematic self-denial application digging into the facts phenomena and relations by which we are surrounded and a part of which we are, for that knowledge which enables one to look into things instead of at them as the ignorant and brutal must, since to them most of the wonders and real meaning of their surroundings is as a sealed book.

You have great reason for pride and thankfulness that you have had the training of this institution and are about to go out as its Alumni. It has been my privilege to have seen each successive class go from here, and I have followed many of its Alumni in their subsequent careers and since results are the best tests of work, I must say that you will have to (as I have no doubt you will) give good accounts of yourselves to hold up the average. I need not mention the necessity of your keeping up the habit of looking into things as much as possible if you would continue to grow, you thus keep the mind "supple" and are constantly adding to your store of useful knowledge. Don't allow yourselves to become "finished" that means stagnation and stagnation means death.

Experience and observation has taught us that the so called "practical" ideas and necessities of life tend to choke out the "ideal" in us which is essentially our selves. As the ideal only endures and else is temporary and is valuable only as it ministers to and develops the ideal in us—our personality or ego. Were I to ask you tonight why this occasion we celebrate? Why all this labor and expense of time and self-denial? You would probably answer "to better fit us for life"—for life—that is vague—what is life? Do you say "to eat and drink and have a good time"—these are very important phases of it, but these are phases which pass, and in passing holds and makes possible the mental life—by this in turn we are inspired and learn to love its ministrations—the wonders of observation and reason charm us as they add to our conscious existence—make us greater—but these, too, fall in time and fade with our failing physical powers—but in passing in it too makes possible and develops (if we grow old normally) the ideal, the spiritual in us. This is as far as we can see in the state of existence, but so far it can be demonstrated as the natural eschatology of normal human beings—and a wonderful spectacle to the unspeakably complicated and you put into it—that righteousness is safe and sin means death. Having striven our best in your behalf and deeply conscious of human limitations we can only command you henceforth to the keeping of our common Father." What! you ask, "is all that there?" Yes my young friends—all that and much more, and therein is the greatest value of these diplomas to you from now on through all your future. The stranger will read the visible inscription and know that in your younger days you improved your time and opportunities and it will command his respect; but if you read and heed what it contains that is invisible to him it will prove a mentor, a talisman, of safety which when the stress of life shall tempt you to forsake your ideals and lower your standard of correct living it will challenge you not to betray your parents and teachers and the friends and in memory of your childhood and put all to shame. It will aid you in finding yourselves, will assist you in realizing your class motto in building "for yourselves more stately mansions."

I cannot close in justice to you, and this occasion without one thought as to the best light by which to read this richer message. You were each created with a still small voice within. Listen! You are each endowed with a light within see! and finally I would that I could divest this thought of all suggestion of religious "can't" or bias and put it strictly on its merits as an aid and guide in your future progress. It is this: Don't deposit your diplomas too far from your bibles. For this reason, if no other, it is the only book in existence from which you can get absolutely safe and full direction and advice in all the crisis of life. By its aid you may ever read this diploma aright, and if properly heeded this diploma will be but as the A B C of which will unroll across your conscious horizon emblazoned with the words: "Success" "Fullness of Life" and the "Peace of God which passeth knowledge."

A Creeping Death.

Blood poison creeps up towards the heart, causing death. J. E. Stearns, Belle Plaine, Minn., writes that a friend dreadfully injured his hand, which swelled up like blood poisoning. Bucklen's Arnica Salve drew out the poison, healed the wound, and saved his life. Best in the world for burns and sores. 25c at J. S. Porch's drug store.

A preliminary surveying corps will reach town this week from Eureka Springs, who are sent out by parties having the purpose of building an electric line from there to this place, with a probable extension to Fayetteville. This is but a starter, but there will come a time when Huntsville will not be an inland town. With the advent of an electric line or a railroad a market will open up for the vast amount of fruit grown in Madison county, her coal will be uncovered and her vast mineral resources developed, making this one of the best counties in Arkansas.—Madison Democrat.

CONGRESSMAN MEEKISON PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

Hon. David Meekison, Napoleon, Ohio, ex-member of Congress, Fifty-fifth District, writes:

"I have used several bottles of Peruna and I feel greatly benefited thereby from my catarrh of the head. I feel encouraged to believe that if I use it a short time longer I will be fully able to eradicate the disease of thirty years' standing."—David Meekison.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL CURE: Mr. Jacob L. Davis, Galena, Stone county, Mo., writes: "I have been in bad health for thirty-seven years, and after taking twelve bottles of your Peruna I am cured."—Jacob L. Davis.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

was buried by his side in the old graveyard, and under the very tree where both had said they desired to sleep when life's short day was ended.

A deep snow had thrown its mantle of white over the earth when Lemuel Randall lay in his last illness, looking out of his room window, and delighting in the beauty of the landscape. He never ceased to grieve over the sad and tragic disappearance of Edwin, and the son's name was among the last words which fell from the heart-broken father before his chastened spirit mounted above the vault of blue. Surrounded by a host of friends the old Southerner was tenderly laid to rest under the snow-clad earth, and Mrs. Randall and Eva were left alone at Locust Dell.

Edwin Randall's recovery was hastened by the loving ministrations of Caroline Scott. When it was so that he could leave the hospital they both would spend some hours of each afternoon on the shore of the blue Pacific, watching the plunging billows and the silvery spray, while their souls drank at Cupid's pure fountain. Their favorite resort was the eminence above the Cliff House, where they could witness the pranks of the seals and the glory of the sun as he passed in majestic grandeur through the Golden Gate. Some three weeks after the accident Edwin was to return to Canada, but he did not leave until he had received from the lips and heart of Caroline the assurance he most desired. She accompanied him to the Ferry Depot, and watched the great old ship as it slowly glided out of the beautiful bay and into the ocean. From the upper deck he waved a reluctant farewell.

It was not long after the conviction of Judiah Weeks before Russell Mason took possession of Blantyre. Mrs. Weeks, broken in heart and health, moved into town, and became an object of charity. Shortly before the trial Molly Weeks married, and two weeks afterward died, hence the mother was now left to face the world alone disgraced, penniless, pain-smitten.

It was a beautiful eve in June. God's angels had lighted the eternal candles of heaven. A lovely little chapel was filled to overflowing with people, some just entering the conflicts of life and some who had almost finished their course.

Temperance Items.

Contributed by the W. C. T. U.

Crime and cigarettes nearly always go together.

Prison records show that criminals, almost without exception, are cigarette slaves.

The cigarette slave is always enfeebled in body, in mind, or in moral sense, and generally in all three.

The cigarette habit is creating more numskulls, more physical wrecks, and more criminals than any other evil habit predominating among young Americans.

Gold is good in its place, but living brave and patriotic men are better than gold.

What a good thing it would be for the boys if every State would pass and enforce a law as strict and comprehensive as the one just signed by Gov. Hawley of Indiana, and which goes into effect next month. It is known as the "Parks Anti Cigarette Bill," and provides a fine of $50 for anyone who by himself, clerk, servant, employer or agent, directly or indirectly, to manufacture, sell or exchange, barter, give away, or keep for sale, any cigarettes, cigarette paper, or any paper made or prepared for purpose of being filled with tobacco for smoking, or to keep or own or be in any way concerned, engaged or employed in, owning or keeping any such cigarettes, cigarette paper or wrappers." Just think! $50 fine may be imposed for a first offense and for a second, $500 or a jail sentence of six months may be given. The people of Indiana evidently mean just what they say—and intend to save their boys.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for a list of testimonials.

At that time reached for the scrap of paper in the yellow envelope. He was looking for the news in the same sentence or at least it seemed that much for Sue Wilton as it was opened and soon made known that Uncle Willard had suddenly died of heart failure and she was expected to be on hand as soon as possible to take charge of the affairs as he lived quite alone and had a great house and she was his only heir.

Of course the Wiltons could do nothing more than take immediate possession. Sue read the message and handed it to her mother. It was a great shock for his poor sister and at other times Sue would have taken it different but on this one particular time at a moment when it seemed that this was all as a last resort. Sue couldn't realize it for the worst for her and she at once made up her mind to that effect. Of course it was sad but it would have been sad to give up her lover. But now thank heaven she would not have to separate with him. Sure enough she did not have to wait long, for the door opened again and in stepped Jack.

"The very idea, you look just like you were going to tell me you were going to be brave and let me go. What about it?"

"Well," said the girl, "I am now prepared to tell you I am not going to let you go."

"What, how you are talking." "Well, be seated and I will explain. In the first place you know I am my uncle heir and he is very rich and at his death I am to take possession of all."

"Yes, I understand, but have you ever stopped to think he may live fifty years yet?" said Jack. "and we can't expect him to advance us in the world. I know the old man is in good health or at least was yesterday, as I met him on the street in Dublin."

"Now that is just the point I have been trying to get you to see, that you might possibly be taken suddenly ill or die, so far from home, but this part I trust is done away with," as she handed him the message. "What this Sue," he said, as he proceeded to investigate. "Been getting an invitation to some great affair?" But as he discovered what it really was, Sue broke the silence by answering in a low, sweet voice, "Yes, my dear, I must ask you to accompany me."

Of course Jack did not refuse for as he often told Sue afterwards he didn't really want to go out West any way; real soon a happy wedding took place, and of course it goes without saying we leave them happy and contented.

A theatrical company gave "Romeo and Juliet" at Eureka Springs this week, in which the principal characters were "Peter" and the "Nurse." The people there say Shakespeare will never again write anything so funny.

Speaking of municipal ownership of public utilities Yellville has successfully solves this economic question. The hogs own the streets and alleys, and occasionally a garden or two, while the residents own the hogs.

The Pullman car company proposes to resist the paying of taxes in Kansas because the sleeping cars are not specifically mentioned in the title of the law. But they are. The law especially mentions cattle cars, and where is the traveling hog who does not appropriate a Pullman.

Zinc Notes.

There is an ore boom at Baxter Springs, Kan., and zinc mines are in full blast.

Zinc ore went 50 cents higher last week, the top price being $46.50 for choice lots. This should be an incentive to the Arkansas miner.

The starting up of the Morning Star with the promise of its continuous working gives to the Rush district an appearance of life and activity that is most satisfactory.

A mine that will run ten per cent ore and equipped with a hundred-ton mill, will turn out ten tons per day. At present price of $45 per ton would be $450 per day, and the cost of running about $75. There is where your profit is. Many and in fact most mines should turn in more ore than that per day after you once get your mine opened up so as to give your men working room.

The big prospect drill of the Rich Hill (Mo.) Oil and Gas Development Co. went through a large deposit of jack, zinc ore, besides having previously punctured four and five foot veins of coal. This find will be prospected further, and it is possible that field may be developed into another Joplin.

Cleared for Action.

When the body is cleared for action, by Dr. King's New Life Pills, you can tell it by the bloom of health on the cheeks; the brightness of the eyes; the firmness of the flesh and muscles; the buoyancy of the mind. Try them. At J. S. Porch's drug store, 25 cents.

understand physical construction. It is a judgment passed upon him by his All-wise Creator when He pronounced him "very good." Thus we note that our growth is 1st the body, and the mind with its phenomena, 3rd the deal, the spirit the "ego" your true selves each in turn growing out of and dependant upon each other, furnished alone by its predecessor attending to certain fixed and definite laws. By knowledge gained through the senses we seek perfect correspondence with our surroundings or "environments," [as the scientist is properly call it] that we may feel good—be happy—then, happiness is after all the logical natural goal towards which we tend and for which we live.

Now we are told on good authority that the road to happiness is "straight and narrow." That this is entirely true can be easily and logically shown by reasoning from the facts just given,—1st good food properly eaten, means good blood and body—good body means good health good faculties and good reasoning—good reasoning means good judgment good heart; but a good heart is pure, and we have it on equally good authority that the "pure in heart shall see God," and that is getting close to headquarters.

Thus you see that there is not only profound wisdom but a guide to safety in the injunction, "keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life," hence if you would develop a personality, an ego worthy of an after life, a desirable immortality, you must cultivate and clean, and keep clean your hearts that they may lead you into the safety of all truth. May assist you in building more stately mansions."

PRESENTATION OF DIPLOMAS

But my young friends, I have for you another and possibly pleasanter duty enjoined upon me by your teachers and the Board of Directors in the presentation to you of your diplomas—inscribed evidences of your having faithfully and successfully completed their prescribed course of study. By this act they create an epoch in your lives which must ever rank closely with that of birth, marriage and death. Here they declare that you are prepared for the Commencement of a more protracted and important course of culture. By these tokens they stamp their approval upon your past conduct and in a large way vouch for your character and future.

As your investigations into Physics have shown you that all outward phenomena is but the visible expression of much deeper and often richer meaning, hidden to all but those whose eyes and ears have been opened to the still small voices by which their existence and beauties are made manifest, so these diplomas contain written between the lines in invisible ink, much of unknown import except to those who can hold them to the proper light. Viewed thus, let us see what they contain:

"We, your parents, teachers and friends of your childhood, desire to record herein, that we have, to the best of our ability furnished you with homes, food, clothing, school facilities and the best advantages we could command to develop you into the noblest man and womanhood. We desire also to express our intense joy and appreciation of your efforts to supplement our work, and our pride in your success as evidenced hereby. We realize with great solicitude the fact that you have now reached a point in your development from which you must henceforth rely more upon yourselves your choice of a life work—your companions, the homes you make; indeed your future destinies must rest with you upon your own decisions. Experience and observation has taught us that it requires a clear brain and clean heart to make these decisions wisely, and they are impossible with poisons in the blood and brain, or in the heart. We can but hope by precept and example you have learned the dignity of labor—that you cannot hope to get more out of life than

Love Her Undoing.

Miss Lillian Alma Ferguson, who has been masquerading as a man in Mooresville, N. C., and was known as Ralph Carlisle Hamilton, the town's popular photographer, unmasked herself when she became engaged to Miss Bertha Flowe, 17 years old, and considered the prettiest girl in Hickory. Society people in Mooresville hailed with delight the announcement of the engagement, only to learn with consternation that Hamilton was a 19-year old girl, whose home was in Chatham county, that State.

For five weeks Hamilton was the most popular "young man" in the town of Mooresville, a favorite with men on account of "his" hearty, jovial manner, and attractive to the young ladies on account of "his" gallant, courteous behavior.

In business circles Hamilton was also making much progress until he met Miss Flowe and fell in love.

The courtship progressed rapidly but neglected business grew worse and worse. "He" was unable to pay "his" board bill and other obligations. These led to the girl's confession. She has had to make her own way in the world and believed the lot of man the easiest.

Why Suffer From Rheumatism?

Why suffer from rheumatism when one application of Chamberlain's Pain Balm will relieve the pain? The quick relief which this liniment affords makes rest and sleep possible, and that alone is worth many times its cost. Many who have used it hoping only for a short relief from suffering have been happily surprised to find that after awhile the relief became permanent. Mrs. V. H. Leggett of Yum Yum, Tennessee, U. A. S., writes, "I am a great sufferer from rheumatism, all over from head to foot, and Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the only thing that will relieve the pain." For sale by all druggists.

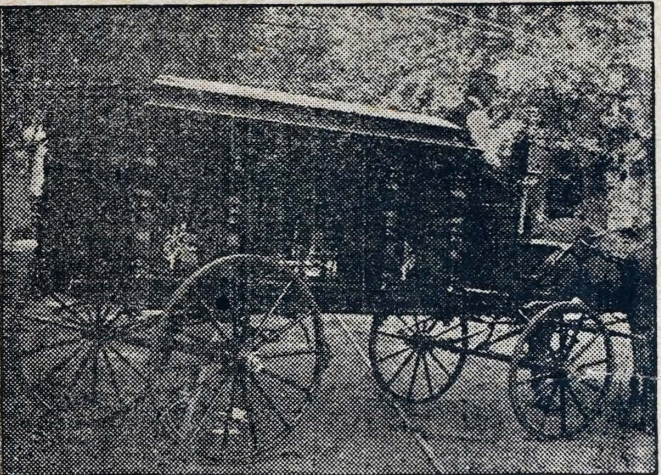

They are still discovering Hoch's wives in Chicago.

A Good Suggestion.

Mr. C. B. Wainwright of Lemon City, Fla., has written the manufacturers that much better results are obtained from the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in cases of pains in the stomach, colic and cholera morbus by taking it in water as hot as can be drunk. That when taken in this way the effect is double in rapidity. "It seems to get at the right spot instantly," he says. Sold by all druggists.

ON WEST MOUNTAIN

Growing Popular as a Residential Section.

Eureka Springs is growing in all directions. Year by year new streets are opened, mountain sides are cleared and houses spring up as if by magic.

Perhaps no section of the city has had as fast a growth as West Mountain in Section 16. The improvements have been of the most substantial character. Around the standpipe and east over the Freeman addition a number of residences have been erected. A dozen new houses have gone up in the last few years and a number of older houses have been remodeled and improved. West Mountain is a popular section for residential purposes as it is one of the highest points around Eureka and is convenient to the business section. In summer especially its residents get all the breeze going.

The dream of the people now is to see the street car line extended to take in their section. It is predicted that when it reaches the standpipe many more people will recognize the advantages of this section.

This section of West Mountain is part of the Freeman addition. Few people know that the streets bear picturesque Spanish names, but such is the fact, and a movement is on foot to have signs put up on the main streets. North and south run Inde, Avo, Alamo, Oji, Paxos and Lema streets, and east and west Rosario, Noia, Eugenia, Cabza, Portias, Salz Pinaza and Delores avenues.

Among the new residences that have been erected the last few years are the following:

Mr. F. N. Claffin has a handsome cottage near the standpipe. His grounds comprise four lots and he has made many improvements. Mr. Fred Boles has a neat cottage opposite to the Claffin cottage. It contains seven rooms and is modern built. Mr. M. L. Bailey recently erected a large house which is a great improvement to that neighborhood. Mr. B. F. Putnam bought the Cunningham property recently and has a comfortable well built cottage. He takes great pride in his strawberry beds. Mr. Joseph Rice has just finished a small cottage on Paxos street. Mr. Jos. Mitchell who recently came here from Morrisonville, Ill., has a new cottage on one of the most desirable lots on the Mountain. Mr. W. E. Kester of Iowa is a new comer and is occupying the McCormick cottage.

Mr. W. L. Washburn recently purchased the Hewitt cottage and is making improvements. Mrs. Jenkins and Mr. Joe Freeman both have handsome modern cottages on Lema street. Mr. Miller, of Cherryvale, Kan., recently purchased a cottage on Rosario avenue, and has greatly improved it.

Mr. J. H. Hendricks, of Humboldt, Kan., erected a handsome residence a year ago, the May Alexander House.

Mr. B. J. Rosewater has chased the Lemley cottage, a very desirable property and will improve it.

The above are only a few of the recent improvements in this section but they go to show that our city is growing.

A PARK SUGGESTED.

The city now owns the land around the standpipe and citizens in that vicinity would like to see the civic improvement society take hold of it and improve it for a public park. It has already become a favorite outing place and on pleasant days one may see a bevy of young people playing their games while their elders look on and wish they were young again. The natural lay of the land is such that the plot could be parked with very little expense.

In speaking of this improvement a well-known citizen made the novel suggestion that the water tower be surrounded by a flight of stone steps to the top and thus utilized as an observation tower. The view from the top is said to be magnificent. Fayetteville, Washburn and other places can be seen and on a clear day one can even see St. Louis for example. No doubt the street car company and the citizens generally would aid the city by contributing to such a proposition. As an attraction to visitors it would be of never-failing interest.

We don't talk much about our new Fabric Finish Typewriter Paper; don't have to—it speaks for itself. All it wants is a chance. Come and see it, and compare quality and prices with any of the much vaunted papers offered you elsewhere. Hawley's.

Lloyd & Co's. May sale is now on and one can find nothing but bargains in this well kept store.

What about the the band for the coming summer? Our citizens are not going to allow this important question to go without attention. For several weeks a number of our home boys have been practicing diligently but yet they have received no encouragement from the home people regarding their employment the coming season.

The Phin T. Swett Real Estate Company has been succeeded by the North Arkansas Guaranty Abstract and Investment Company with James Bradfield as manager. Mr. Bradfield is a young man who has had several years experience in this business and his many friends in this city wish him well in this new venture. The offices in Berryville and this city will be under his supervision which insures all the patrons of this company satisfaction. He will be assisted in his work by Mr. C. A. Larasch, of St. Louis.

S. E. Hays, one of our hustling Real Estate and Loan Brokers, says it is time property-owners were looking more closely into their titles and having abstracts made, as it is impossible to secure loans or sell your property without an abstract.

An Eureka Springs young lady says she reads every word of the Flashlight because it is so witty. With such an appreciative reader we shall try harder than ever to keep the Flashlight bright.

It is reported that the hoop-skirt is coming back into fashion. We hope the men of Eureka Springs will guard the gulch and not let it get into this town. Imagine trying to walk along Spring street with ladies wearing hoopskirts!

WITH this issue the continued story "Tangled Threads" is brought to an end. It is needless to assure the distinguished author that our readers have greatly enjoyed the story and have watched for the Flashlight week by week solely to keep up with it. We trust the author will put it into a more permanent form.

THE Memphis Appeal, in commenting on our recent session of the Legislature, says: "Stopping railroad trains was, perhaps, the most popular and most pleasant proceeding engaging the attention of the lawmakers. They one and all seemed determined to lasso a locomotive at some place or another along the many railroad lines and bring the train to a full stop for a few minutes. It was the general impression that a lack of courtesy to Arkansas gentlemen living in remote places was being exhibited by the railroads in that they sent their trains through these places on a dead run."

Five Reasons.

Why is Eureka Springs such a healthy place in which to live? There are several factors which enter into the answer to this question.

First, the purest of spring water, convenient to every person drunk freely. It cleanses the system, and repairs the wasted tissues of the body.

Second, the pure air. The balmy gulf breezes become laden with ozone on their long journey o'er the tops of the pine trees and Eureka Springs being higher than any point between gets the full benefit, night and day.

Third, the hills and mountains. No standing water to affect the atmosphere. Almost everyone does more or less climbing of the hills during the day. They are just steep enough to give one the benefit of exercise without exhaustion.

Fourth, the plain living of our people. They depend on the surrounding country more or less for their food supply and the milk, vegetables and fruits used are fresh and wholesome.

Fifth, the sane methods of life that obtain here. Reasonable hours are kept. Walking, driving and horseback exercise is indulged in and everybody has a good time without dissipating.

All of these elements conspire to make Eureka Springs one of the best places in the United States in which to live, keep well and be happy.

Sport in Huntsville.

Huntsville Republican.

Fish is on the shoals this week and so is the most of our citizens.

Melvin Stotts accidentally got one of his toes shot off one day last week with a pistol caused from the same old story "did't know it was loaded" what was intended to be a snap on an empty chamber with a fine bead on his toe, proved to be a loaded chamber and a "drive center" shot. Melvin will probably use something besides his toe for a target, hereafter, although he may think his gun is unloaded.

Twelve thousand emigrants landed in New York Sunday, all records being broken. The influx this spring will be the largest ever. The class now coming to this country are mostly the scum of Europe and something should be done to stop their coming in such numbers.

There can be no question as to the soundness of the department's view. Activity in politics by public servants will demoralize public service. No question about it. The postmaster-general's notice to employer under him is a new step toward a much needed reform.

Strawberries and cream and cake were served for refreshments and at intervals the cabinet music box gave selections which were much enjoyed.

The spacious dining hall of the Crescent was crowded on Tuesday evening the occasion being the May Pole Dance given for the benefit of the Golf Club. The performance under the direction of Mrs. Hollister and Miss Dove Hyde was very creditable. Miss Beatrice Wood was crowned Queen of May and the dance around the May Pole was exceedingly pretty. After the performance the hall was cleared and general dancing indulged in to the sweet strains of the Crescent Band. This the opening event for the Golf club will be followed by many more this summer.

Mrs. T. L. Hawley in her inimitable way entertained the Idle Hour Euchre Club at her home on West mountain last Thursday afternoon. An enjoyable time is reported by all.

Mrs. Emma Reinhart entertained a few friends informally at wait on Wednesday evening.

The Book Club held its regular meeting last week with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Overstreet at their home on the Boulevard. After the regular business of the evening was transacted a guessing game was indulged in and Miss Estelle Baker carried off first honors which was a handwoven center piece. Miss Laura Willis received a book for second honors. After a delightful time spent in eating ice cream, strawberries and cake the meeting adjourned. The next meeting will be held with Miss Ida Volner on Owen street.

There was plenty of business for the councilmen at the meeting last Monday night but the business transacted—or which they tried to transact—does not furnish any news to our readers. The Missouri Legislature had considerable difficulty in the election of a State senator and the city council of Eureka Springs is just at present having difficulty in electing a superintendent and a board of water and sewer commissioners. Both sides are firm supporters of their candidates and there does not seem to be any chance of a change in the opposing sides. Four votes are necessary to elect but thus far it has not got beyond three. There is some talk of a compromise but that remains to be seen at the meeting next Monday night.

Sawmill Always at Work.

At the big Goodyear sawmill, at Mead Run, in Elk county, logs are consumed at an amazing rate. The plant is equipped with a band mill and set of gangs, and they are kept going twenty-two hours a day. All the lumber is handled by machinery from the time it is lifted from the pond until it is piled in the yard a few minutes later. The process of manufacture is continuous and there is no halt between start and finish. When running at full speed the factory eats up a log in something less than forty seconds, and three trains are kept busy between the pond and the woods to keep up the supply. Hemlock is the only timber being cut.—Wellsboro (Pa.) Advocate.

How to Ward off Old Age.

The most successful way of warding off the approach of old age is to maintain a vigorous digestion. This can be done by eating only food suited to your age and occupation, and when and disorder of the stomach appears take a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets to correct it. If you a weak stomach or are troubled with indigestion, you will find these Tablets to be just what you need. For sale by all Druggists.

GIRLS DEFY OLD-TIME HOODOO.

Lumber Thirteen Has No Terrors for Bold Damsels.

Thirteen young women in another city openly defied superstition the other day in a room decorated with skulls and cross-bones, about which stalked two black cats, while open umbrellas and ladders made the situation still more critical. For the last two years twelve of these women have been looking for a thirteenth who should be willing to pledge herself to become a member and follow the club in its vagaries. A week or two ago (on a Friday), as luck would have it) they found her in the person of a schoolm'am. On the strength of this important find the Thirteen club was organized (of course on a Friday) and proceeded to pass thirteen by-laws (secret ones). The next thirteen minutes were given to the serving of refreshments, the menus being shaped like coffins, with appropriate decorations of the skull and cross-bones kind. Thirteen games of euchre were played, and, as if to give the lie to yet another venerable superstition, the winning couple were not married women, when everybody knows that luck at cards is unlucky at love."

BITTER ROT OF THE APPLE.

"A word now should be said upon the common name. Very commonly the infected flesh of an apple is distinctly bitter to the taste, but there is much variation in this. Sometimes the bitterness is very slight, in other cases almost equal to quinine. But such bitterness sometimes results also from other causes. Other fungi produce a similar taste in the affected fruit, though those usually attacking stored apples have no such effect. The musty flavor due to common molds is altogether different. If the word bitter is not always characteristic, the word rot is not especially appropriate. The affected tissues are never slushy-soft. There is indeed no extra accumulation or incorporation of water. The spot is hard and firm and at length becomes sunken somewhat from the shrinkage of the drying pulp of the fruit. There is no odor. The apple seems to be converted into a semi-woody substance upon the ground. If, however, the affected fruit is neither constantly bitter nor really rotten, still the name is as appropriate as any that can probably be found and is certainly better than that of 'ripe rot' which has been proposed."—Prof. T. J. Burrill.

One of the best crops to grow for late fall or early spring pasturage is rye. When sown for this purpose, so far as conditions will admit the seed should be sown early in the fall in order that the plants may secure a good start to grow before using for pasture. Few plants will stand more tramping or closer grazing than rye and yet come out and give a good growth in the spring. The soil should be prepared in a good tilth, and the seed sown under as favorable conditions as possible.

WIND BAD FOR FRUIT TREES.

Experienced investigators have found that the wind does more damage in the winter than the mere cold. Shrubs and plants that ordinarily withstand much chill may become winter-killed when suffering only a moderate degree of cold accompanied by wind.

"Many horticulturists wrap hay and burlap around plants, but this does not always keep out the wind. A modern invention consists of a wide board sharpened and driven down beside the plant on the side toward the prevailing winds. The branches are gathered and tied to the board.

"Hay and burlap may then be used in the usual way, the board serving to strengthen the whole and to protect from the wind. It is well to let the hay come well out upon the ground around the base, since this gives protection to the roots of the plants."

If we maintain good fences the flock will not become unruly. We should spend the time that we too often waste chasing an unruly flock in building substantial fences.

Appreciated "Clarissa."

Edward Young, author of "Night Thoughts," wrote in 1749 to the Duchess of Portland a letter containing an enthusiastic reference to Richardson's "Clarissa," and this letter has just been published among the Longleaf MSS. "Has your grace read his 'Clarissa'?" says Young. "What a beautiful brat of the brain is there! I wish your grace would stand godmother and give its name 'Clarissa the Divine.' That romance will probably do more good than a body of Divinity. If all printers could turn such authors I would turn printer in order to be instrumental in promoting such benefit to mankind." The modern author may well sigh for such appreciation.

WIT OF DOUGLAS JERROLD.

Responsible for Famous Impromptu

That Will Live Long. . .
T. P. O'Connor says Douglas Jerrold's impromptus are the smartest he can recall. They have all the special merit of that brevity which is the soul of wit. When a prosy old bore stopped Jerrold, who was hurrying on urgent business along Regent street, with the question, "Well, Jerrold, my dear boy, what is going on?" "I am," retorted Jerrold, shooting past like an arrow from a bow. Asked to contribute to a third subscription which was being got up for a reckless Grub street writer, Jerrold cried impatiently, "how much does the fellow want this time?" "Well, this time I think just four and two pence will put him straight." "Put me down for one of the noughts." A lawyer, replying to the toast of his health drunk at a dinner of artists, stammered out that he did not expect this honor, as law could hardly be considered one of the arts, whereupon Jerrold interjected one word only, "Black."

The Commoner: It is a little unkind in Judge Parker to say that his defeat was easy to "foresee and predict." Those who urged his nomination used as their only argument that he could win. If the judge had made his Jefferson day speech last June he would not have been nominated.

Siloam Springs Herald: There ought to be no fractions in a town the size of Siloam Springs. The prosperity of one individual affects the prosperity of every individual, and every improvement enhances the value of all property in the corporation. A town is simply a big family. When there is discord there is little progress, but when there is a united advancement its accomplishment is easy. Envy, hatred and jealousy are things to be despised. Malice is a canker that makes people sour, disgruntled and unhappy.

BUYING RUBIES IN BURMA.

Grips and Signs Used in Bargaining for Precious Stones.

The peculiar business methods of oriental merchants are illustrated by the manner of buying rubies in Burma, says the Jewelers' Circular Weekly. In the examination of rubies artificial light is not used, the merchants holding that full sunlight alone can bring out the color and brilliancy of the gems. Sales must, therefore, take place between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m., and the sky must be clear.

The purchaser, placed near a window, has before him a large copper plate. The sellers come to him one by one and each empties upon this plate his little bag of rubies. The purchaser proceeds to arrange them for valuation in a number of small heaps. The first division is into three grades, according to size; each of these groups is again divided into three piles according to color, and each of these piles is again divided into three groups, according to shape. The bright copper plate has a curious use. The sunlight reflected from it through the stone brings out with true rubies a color effect different from that with red spinels and tourmalines, which are thus easily separated.

The buyer and seller then go through a very peculiar method of bargaining by signs or rather grins, in perfect silence. After agreeing upon the fairness of the classification, they join their right hands, covered with a handkerchief or the flap of a garment, and by grips and pressures mutually understood among all these dealers they make, modify and accept proposals of purchase and sale. The hands are then uncovered and the prices are recorded.

WAYS OF THE DRUMMER.

Expert Opinion by One Who Evidently Knows the Species.

The gentleman who is called the drummer is frequently the whole band and a brass band at that. There is consequently music in the air when he is around. After he is gone the music is of another brand, for the man who has bought a bill of goods that he didn't want frequently says things.

The drummer is a great builder. Sometimes he makes as many as three towns in a day. One would think while he was at it that he would make a few hotels, for he is never satisfied with the ones that he finds along the way.

Let us be kind to the drummer, remembering that he is human and frequently has a wife and family at home, although all of the pretty girls that he meets on his travels do not find it out.—Illinois State Journal.

WINDSTORM KILLED WHEN SUFFERING ONLY A SLIGHT DEGREE OF COLD ACCORDING TO WIND.

Many horticulturists wrap hay and burlap around plants, but this does not always keep out the wind. A modern invention consists of a wide board sharpened and driven down beside the plant on the side toward the prevailing winds. The branches are gathered and tied to the board.

"Hay and burlap may then be used in the usual way, the board serving to strengthen the whole and to protect from the wind. It is well to let the hay come well out upon the ground around the base, since this gives protection to the roots of the plants."

If we maintain good fences the flock will not become unruly. We should spend the time that we too often waste chasing an unruly flock in building substantial fences.

EVILS OF CROSS-BREEDING.

Replying to an inquiry as to the "best breed of hogs to cross-breed in order to get the best results," the Indiana Farmer says:

"In our reply our advice is, that unless you have money and years of time to throw away, you had better not try cross-breeding at all. It has required years of breeding, toll and patience to obtain the existing splendid types and families, and the better thing for a young or old breeder to do is to stick to them. Select the one you prefer and get dams and sires not too near akin, and stand by that, if you want certain success. Life is too short to take the chances of one success against the record of scores of failures. Especially is this the wisest course to take, since it is true that, while once in fifty or a hundred years a new breed has been produced, the new was no better than the old ones crossed to produce it. Continue to improve the present improved breeds, instead of trying to get a new-fangled one that will not be better."

Be gentle with the hogs so that they become docile and quiet. The keeper's disposition is often reflected in the herd.

STORING ONIONS.

My plan of keeping onions through the winter is this: Be sure they are perfectly dry when cribbing them, as that is one of the main points to be considered. If they are to be disposed of before cold weather comes, they can be kept in any dry place where they have plenty of air. The best place is a crib built in the same manner as a corn crib, so the air can circulate freely through them. Onions to be kept for the winter market, must be kept at a low temperature from the time they are first put in storage, keeping them at thirty-five to thirty-two degrees; there is no danger of the temperature being too low, just so they are kept from actually freezing, and are nice and dry.

Penetration of Camera.

A Manchester photographer relates that he took a photograph of a child who was apparently in good health and had a clear skin. The negative showed the face to be thickly covered with an eruption. Three days afterward the child was covered with spots due to prickly heat. The camera had seen and photographed the eruption three days before it was visible to the naked eye. It is said that another case of a similar kind is recorded where a child showed spots on his portrait which were invisible on his face a fortnight previous to an attack of mallow.

Watching the Ships.

These winged sea-birds outward slip At twilight-tide; I view them—with a trembling lip, And wistfully— Ah, happy sails! For you attain Your bright Cathay! The harbors of my hope remain A dim Some Day! A face I loved is lost in mist Of falling tears; And where are lips, with laughter kissed, O robber years? The snips de art—joy-confident Of ports to be Shall I await, in like content, The coming sea?—Everybody's Magazine.

Siloam Springs Herald: There ought to be no fractions in a town the size of Siloam Springs. The prosperity of one individual affects the prosperity of every individual, and every improvement enhances the value of all property in the corporation. A town is simply a big family. When there is discord there is little progress, but when there is a united advancement its accomplishment is easy. Envy, hatred and jealousy are things to be despised. Malice is a canker that makes people sour, disgruntled and unhappy.

Herbert Spencer On The Rights Of Women.

Herbert Spencer, one of the greatest, if not the greatest of modern philosophers, says the rights of women must stand or fall with those of men. "They are derived from the same authority; involved in the same axiom; demonstrated by the same argument. The law of equal freedom applies alike to both sexes." The idea that the rights of women are not equal to those of men is akin to the eastern dogma that women have no souls. Subordination of females to males reveals its descent from barbarism. As the usages of mankind vary so much, let us hear how it is that the sphere we assign woman is the true one, that the limits we have set to female activity are just the proper limits. Let us hear why, on this one point of our social policy, we are exactly right, whilst we are wrong on so many others. "The desire to command is essentially a barbarous desire. Whether seen in the ukase of a czar or in the order of an Eton bully to his fag, it is alike significant of brutality. 'You must not do as you will, but as I will,' is the basis of every mandate, whether used by a planter to his negro, or by a husband to his wife."

These statements, and this logic of Herbert Spencer, have never been, and never can be, upset. On April 16th The Frisco System will place a new time card in effect by which considerable improvement in the schedule is effected. A new fast train will be added from Memphis to Kansas City leaving Memphis about 7:00 A. M., reaching Kansas City the same evening at 10:50. A new sleeping car line will be established between Kansas City and Eureka Springs via Pittsburg, Carthage and Monet, leaving Kansas City at 11:30 P. M., arriving Eureka Springs 9:30 A. M. On the return trip this car will leave Eureka Springs at 5:20 P. M., arrive Kansas City 7:30 A. M. A new train will be established between Lawton and Oklahoma City, leaving Lawton early in the morning returning leave Oklahoma that evening.

Magnificent Set of New Wall Charts.

The most attractive premium offer of recent years is contained in the proposition made by The Republic, St. Louis, Mo., to OLD AND NEW subscribers of the TWICE-A-WEEK REPUBLIC, the oldest established weekly newspaper in the West, and FARM PROGRESS, the great monthly farm and home journal, also published by The Republic.

To every person who sends $1 to pay for one year's subscription (new or a renewal) to the TWICE-A-WEEK REPUBLIC (104 issues a year) and FARM PROGRESS (the big monthly). The Republic will mail postage prepaid and securely packed, a new accurate and complete set of wall charts containing three great sheets, each 28x36 inches, with nine maps, as follows:

Map of the world; your choice of any of the following States: Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kansas, Texas and Indian Territory and Oklahoma (the two last named on one sheet); a new map of the United States and up-to-date map of Alaska, the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii, Panama and the canal and a topographic map of the Russo-Japanese war district.

Portraits of all the Presidents, from Washington to Roosevelt, are also shown.

The HOME library wall chart contains a wealth of indispensable information, among the statistic being a complete index of the countries and towns of the State represented, money-order Post Offices, rural free delivery routes, railroad and express offices, electric lines, terminal or belt lines, banking towns, population of towns of 3,000 and over in the United States, a history and description of Panama; facts and figures of officials and legislatures of the various States, number of killed and wounded, battles fought and other data of the Russo-Japanese war.

The chart is approved by school teachers, principals and superintendents everywhere. The regular selling price is $2.50, but you get the chart FREE with a year's subscription to The Twice-A-Week Republic and FARM PROGRESS, both of which will be sent to any address or to separate addresses for $1 a year.

The Twice-A-Week Republic was established in 1808, and is therefore one of the oldest newspapers in the country.

More than half a million readers attest its merits as a great semi-weekly journal. FARM PROGRESS contains 16 standard size newspaper pages each issue, filled with the best farm information, live stock, poultry, gardening, horses and mules, cattle, dairy and other agricultural departments: pictures, puzzles, poems, stories, choice fiction, fashions, domestic articles and a host of other valuable information.

This offer is limited to 60 days. In ordering, specify which State map is desired.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE.

Notice is hereby given that I, E. M. Bare, Commissioner in Chancery appointed by the Chancery court of the Western District of Carroll county, Arkansas, at its January term, 1905 in the case of George A. Russ against George O. Linbarger and H. E. Russ will on at the front door of the court house in the city of Eureka Springs, Carroll county, Arkansas, between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and 3 o'clock p. m., sell at public outcry and to the highest bidder, on a credit of three months, the following property, to-wit:

Beginning at the N. E. corner of the property formerly belonging to Andrew Wilson at the point where the north line of said Andrew Wilson's property joins or intersects with the property belonging to or occupied by J. C. Cunningham, thence in a northwesterly direction along face of stone wall forty-four and one-half (44½) feet; thence along said stone wall in a westerly direction fifty-two and one-half (52½) feet; thence in a southwesterly direction at right angles with said stone wall twenty-two (22) feet; thence east parallel with said stone wall seventeen (17) feet; thence southwest at right angles with said stone wall twenty (20) feet; back line of the front lot on the north side of Rogers alley; thence east along said back line seven and one-half (7½) feet; thence south at right angles with the said last described line eighteen (18) feet; thence east along the northeast line of said Andrew Wilson's property seventy-three and one-half (73½) feet, to the place or beginning. Also beginning at the southeast corner of the lot belonging to Mrs. Sarah Letcher, now occupied by Douglass Churchill, on the north side of Rogers alley; thence east along the north side of Rogers alley one hundred and two (102) feet, more or less to lots formerly belonging to Andrew Wilson; thence north at right angles along said last described line forty (40) feet; thence westward parallel with Rogers alley one hundred and two (102) feet, more or less to northeast corner of Sarah Letcher's lot to the beginning. The above lots are known on Riley's Plat as lot one (1), block eighty-one (81) and also known as the George O. Linbarger residence, all in the city of Eureka Springs, Carroll county Arkansas.

Said sale will be made by virtue of a decretal order of said court entered on the 19th day of January, 1905 in said action, to satisfy a lien of said plaintiff on said property for $743.55, as declared by said decree, together with interest at ten per cent per annum and cost. The purchaser will be required to give note with approved security for the purchase money, bearing interest from date of sale at ten per cent per annum, and that a lien be retained on said property for purchase money.

Witness my hand this 21st day of April, 1905.

E. M. BARE,
Commissioner in Chancery.
