THE NATIONAL

SANITARIUM SOCIETY

Organization Effected at a Banquet at Sweet Spring Hotel Tuesday Evening.

FOR THE GOOD OF ALL MANKIND

The Government to Be Petitioned to Make of Eureka Springs a National Sanitarium for the Cure of Bright's Disease.

The launching of the National Sanitarium Society, which occurred at a banquet given February 28th, at the Sweet Spring hotel, was one of the most important events in our Nation's history, if the plans and purposes of the society are perfected. To one unacquainted with Eureka Springs, and the scope of the movement started on this occasion, this may seem a broad statement, for ordinarily the world at large is not interested in any project with so small a beginning. But success of the undertaking launched at this modest banquet means the salvation of many lives now threatened and others of coming generations. A nation's greatness lies not so much in its wealth as in its citizens, and to preserve the health of its people is to build up the country's stronghold. Science and wealth is engaged everywhere in an effort to stamp out tuberculosis and establish sanitariums, asylums, etc., for the conservation and care of the human race, but there is a dread disease for which science hitherto has been able to do but little, and in Eureka Springs, Arkansas, the government as a sanitarium for this malady—Bright's disease—we are doing so with assurance that this gift to mankind is one of the greatest made since the day when the star in the East guided the magi to where God's Supreme Gift to the world lay cradled in a manger.

It is not that Eureka Springs wishes to prosper under the fostering care of the government, for that is the least consideration, but it is to bless the suffering and give new life to helpless ones, that this undertaking was proposed. The scheme originated with Mr. O. H. Orendorff, who, out of the fullness of a grateful heart for his own restoration to health here, would have others afflicted with his old enemy, Bright's disease, hear the good tidings that healing is for them, too, at Eureka Springs, Arkansas.

The object and aims of the society, and the reasons for its organization, are better set forth in the constitution and through the talks made at the banquet than could be otherwise done in a newspaper article, and we therefore give a synopsis of the several talks, together with the constitution adopted and the membership roll.

Besides those who gave the program for toasts, Dr. Chas. E. Davis, Dr. T. J. Allen, and Messrs. S. A. Diehl and C. L. Kendrick responded to requests for talks.

A second meeting is to be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock, at the Sweet Springs hotel to perfect the organization by the election of officers, etc. It is hoped to conduct the business of the body for the first year without any salaried officers.

One of the objects of the local membership will be to make life pleasant for the strangers within our gates, devising entertainment and otherwise looking after the visitors' welfare.

As soon as the membership roll was opened, names came in rapidly, and yesterday everyone approached by the membership solicitor seemed favorable to the proposition and it is believed this will soon become the largest organization in Eureka Springs.

Constitution

Article I.

The name of this organization shall be "National Sanitarium Society" and its object shall be to bring the merits of the waters of Eureka Springs, Arkansas, as a cure for Bright's disease, to the attention of the National Government, to the end that the Government take charge of the waters and found a National Sanitarium here;

and further to publish to the world the fact, that the waters of Eureka Springs do actually cure Bright's disease.

Article II.

Sec. 1.—Any citizen of the United States who will aid in this work and who shall have paid the annual dues of one dollar may become a member of this organization.

Sec. II.—All members present at any meeting of the National Sanitarium Society may have full power to vote on any and all questions pertaining to this organization.

Sec. III.—Any non-resident member who may secure five non-resident members, will be entitled to a special privilege card, lasting one year from date of issue, entitling him or her while in the city to any and all special rates and accommodations secured by this society.

Article III.

Sec. 1.—The officers of this society shall consist of a President, Vice-President, and one Vice-President-at-large from each state; and a Secretary and Treasurer.

Sec. 2.—These officers with the exception of the vice-presidents at large constitute a board of managers.

Sec. 3.—All officers shall be elected at the annual meeting which will be held the second Monday in August of each year.

Article IV.

Seven members shall constitute a quorum at any regular annual meeting.

Article V.

Sec. 1.—This constitution may be amended at any annual meeting by a two-thirds vote of all members present, the proposed amendment having been submitted in writing at a previous regular meeting.

Sec. 2.—Amendments may also be made by the unanimous vote of all members at any annual meeting.

"Why We Should Organize the National Sanitarium Society, and the Work It Can Do."

The ultimate object of all human effort has been to obtain rest. The busy worker in field, or factory or office is working not for money nor fame in themselves, but for the day when the result of his labors will bring a cessation of them, and allow him to enjoy at ease the results of his work.

It is not strange, therefore, that with the necessity of labor in some form, confronting every one, if he hopes ever to realize his dreams, that not only has death ever been the bugbear of his existence, but having an almost equal threat, disease and the fear of it, has ever stalked beside the worker with threatening arm, filling his days with dread, and accompaning his dreams with the nightmare, of being unable to realize his hopes.

We can understand then, why it is, that in all civilizations, whether among crude or cultured peoples, the healer has always held a place of influence and power; how the early aborigines of America placed their medicine men only second to their chiefs, and almost if not wholly equal in power in the tribe. As to our medicines and treatments, we were, as we now know them, being as they must have been to give relief, their futility brought no lessening of power to the pretended healer. He was the only chance that offered a promise of help to the suffering, and the promise alone carried power with it. It is not without reason that in the Galilean days, Luke was mentioned most tenderly as the "beloved physician"; only the afflicted can understand how much was meant in the description of the Christ as the Great Physician, nor how closely in touch with all peoples such a designation brought him.

The same veneration attaching to the personal healer, has in like manner grown up about places and localities that were once the scenes of long or brief periods of efficacy for healing of affliction. The river Jordan is perhaps no better known than as the stream where the nobleman was freed from his lifelong malady; the pool of Siloam will live in history forever because the power of Christ once endowed its waters with healing virtues.

We have, as we believe, here in Eureka Springs, waters whose efficacy for the cure and relief of many maladies is no longer problematical, but assured. Countless cures, and hundreds of relieved sufferers today attest their value. No one ever owned any treasure worth while to him, unless he enjoyed it with another. And this treasure, open to us all, is equally the treasure of the world, and can best be enjoyed by us, by making it known to all mankind and allowing them to partake of its benefits with us. This furnishes the ample excuse for the formation of the organization we have tonight.

Work may be divided as being foreign and local. Foreign, in that its duty lies to bring the knowledge of what we have to offer to the world at large; foreign, in that it becomes enabled to interest the national government in a humanitarian effort to ward preserving for all the people these waters that should be equally the heritage of all. Local, in its power to make our city livable and enjoyable to all who enter our gates; a place where they not only are glad to come but from which they are loth to go. In this we accomplish a double result; that of placing about the sufferer and visitor beautiful surroundings and making his life more worth living, but by the same act we add to the value of our own property, make our own life more worth living, and in the doing of a righteous deed, turn it into dollars and cents and get the pecuniary benefit therefrom. As an organization it goes with authority not vested in an individual, to our council, our board of health, and our various local bodies of civic government, and accomplishes results impossible to the individual or to any number of separate individuals working alone. These, in brief, are some of the reasons for organizing this movement and some of the lines of work that it may accomplish. A hearty and generous support of its aims will redound to the benefit of the city and every person therein, whether temporarily or permanently located here.

Dr. M. R. Regan

"Do the merits of These Waters in the Cure of Bright's Disease Justify Government Control and National Publicity."

Mr. Toastmaster, Ladies and Gentlemen:—

I answer this question most emphatically in the affirmative and shall state briefly why, in my opinion, results unknown to other health resorts are the rule here. In our medical work we find great profit in the study of adjuncts. Here we have three forces working in perfect harmony for a definite purpose—Altitude, Climate and Water. I have always held that we place too little stress on altitude, yet, by physicians everywhere, it is regarded as an important factor in recovery from chronic ailments of whatever kind. When disease has fastened itself upon the human system, loss of vital resistance follows. Low altitudes emphasize this depression; consequently, in the lowlands to the North, East, South and Southwest of us there is urgent need of change to a higher altitude that shall build up normal resiliency of the system. We have that altitude. On the other hand, is the extreme altitude of the mountain.

Simulation of the circulatory system and so burns out vitality. For these sections, also, we have a safe retreat—a golden mean where the system can ease down gracefully and build up at the same time, thus avoiding shock.

Our climate has its freaks, but these exceptions only prove the rule. Just now, for example, you have only to overlook a few days of the past two weeks and then cast your eye backward over months and months of clear skies; in fact, you may depend

BOOK CLUBBERS MEET ON TOWER HEIGHTS

Miss Hazel Dickens Hostess to One Of City's Jolliest Clubs

The regular meeting of the Book club Tuesday night, at the new home on Tower Heights of Miss Hazel Dickens, was well attended, as all these meetings are. Although the weather was bad, our hostess' home was so bright and pleasant we soon forgot the bleak night outside, and mirth and jollity prevailed.

Our president, Mrs. Floyd, was detained at home with la grippe and Prof. Barnett presided. But little business was on hand. A motion was had to raise the membership dues to $5.00 per year, but was laid over to the next meeting.

Business over, Miss Hazel presented a "shirt waist contest," in which a number of the important parts were to be supplied by the one filling in the names. Dr. DeLano won in the contest, receiving as a prize a beautiful embroidered shirt waist front, embroidered by Miss Hazel. Mrs. DeLano promptly appropriated this, despite the protests of the Doctor, and the advice of Prof. Barnett to make a jabot of it.

The next contest, "A Bean Exchange," was won by Dr. John, proving he believed in getting all that was going and that he knew beans "all right."

At this time, Miss Hazel called from "Labor to Refreshment" at which all contested for honors, and hard to tell who won. Only those who are privileged to visit in this home can appreciate the elegant entertainment provided, consisting of Salad, Olives, Sandwiches, Cheese straws, Orange sticks, Stuffed dates.

When the time to leave came, all joined in thanking Miss Hazel and her sister, father and mother for such a pleasant evening.

W. M. B. Club

Mrs. A. Milligan was hostess to after-entertaining the W. M. B. Club's social circle yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance, members, nearly everyone responding to roll call.

Mrs. Chester Thomas, who has recently moved to Eureka Springs from Kansas City, was received into the circle as a new member.

Mrs. Milligan of Indiana, who is a guest in the Milligan home, had the privilege of meeting nearly all her sister-in-law's neighbors at once, because of this club gathering. Mrs. J. L. Bryant was also a visitor at the club gathering.

Dainty refreshments were served. The club will meet next week with Miss Abbie Riley.

To Whom it May Concern

Mail Box Robbed

Newport, March 1.—For some time past mail has been missing from the lock boxes in the local office, and it is now stated that carelessness of renters is particularly responsible for this condition. It appears that some one leaves his box unlocked and the thief is able to slip his hand through it and reach the mail in several others.

Mail matter addressed to John P. Paul, containing money orders and checks, to Gustave Jones and others, has been found on the streets. Postmaster Grubbs has secured the arrest of Douglas Martin, a 17-year-old negro, who implicates J. W. Harrison, another negro, who is now being sought.

THINKS HE HAS THE MAN

Sheriff at Harrison is Holding the Los Angeles Dynamiter

Harrison, Mar. 1.—Local authorities here believe that they have in custody Schmidt, one of the four much-wanted Los Angeles criminals. This morning a telephone message was received from the sheriff of Stone county, Missouri, stating that he was pursuing a man wanted in that state for horse stealing, and for the authorities here to arrest the suspect, who was coming in this direction.

Shortly before noon the man in question rode leisurely into town and was immediately arrested by Sheriff Helm, with the assistance of Alex Freeling and Charles Francis. The prisoner took his arrest very coolly, smiling when he observed the pistol drawn upon him. No weapons were found upon him.

The Missouri sheriff soon arrived and claimed the prisoner, but Sheriff Helm refused to give him up, as he had observed that the man resembles Schmidt. He has the build, height, color of hair and the artificial eye as described in the circulars sent out by the Los Angeles authorities, who have been wired pending the disposition of the prisoner. He stoutly maintains that his name is Hellings and that he lives on a ranch at Notch, in Stone county, Missouri.

Some Advertising

A small advertisement for Eureka Springs will appear in all the leading Sunday newspapers published in the east and central west next Sunday, a circulation of over three million, announcing Dr. Allen's sanitarium at Eureka Springs, through Ankrum Advertising agency of Chicago.

Rode on Pass—Arrested

Alleging Miss Sarah Wilkes rode on a pass from Kansas City to a small town in Northern Missouri, and in doing so traveled into Kansas, violated the federal anti-pass law, she and George W. Jump, a telegraph operator, will be arraigned before Roy B. Thompson, United States commissioner today.

Jumps, who was employed by a railroad at that time, got the pass for Miss Wilkes. He was arrested in St. Joseph last week and Miss Wilkes was arrested in Wichita, Kas., yesterday. Jumps lost both legs in an accident.—Kansas City Journal.

Trusts Are Not Wanted

Melbourne, Australia, Mar. 1.—The commonwealth of Australia served notice on the business world today that it would not harbor foreign "trusts." The following memorandum on the subject was given to the press by Sir R. W. Best, minister of trade and customs:

"For several months past it has been an open secret that representatives of the American Meat Trust have been visiting Australia, ostensibly with the object of extending its operations here. The government is determined to take immediate and drastic action to discourage and if necessary to prohibit its operations in Australia. It is not proposed to wait until the combine secures vested interests in this country."

Mrs. Harding and daughter, Miss Gertrude, of Evanston, Ill., are here for their annual spring visit, guests at the Thatch. These pleasant ladies are very popular in Eureka Springs.

T. A. Stocklager came over from Harrison today for a visit of several days at home, looking after his property. Tom's friends are glad to greet him and welcome him to the old home.

Wm. Jenkins accompanied a bunch of timber men to White county yesterday, the latter going with a view to investing. They left on the midnight train over the North Arkansas line.

Traffic Manager C. D. Whitney, of the M. & N. A. road, is to have the supervision of station agents along the line—duties that heretofore have been looked after from the superintendent's office at Leslie.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Bryant were guests of Mr. Erwin, at the Pence, on Tuesday. The minister and his wife came into Eureka Springs on the same train with Mr. Erwin, who is here as a health seeker, and the train acquaintance has ripened into a pleasant friendship.

Mrs. Kahlo's first showing of spring hats attracted considerable attention, for the ladies were all anxious to see what will be worn. "Rats" for the hair are to go, the wholesalers say, and the advance styles in headwear seem to bear this out. The braids are exceedingly pretty this year.

Dr. J. H. DeLano bought the W. B.
Jones farm of 214 acres sold at public guardian sale yesterday, by order of the court. This farm is one of the finest King's river farms, and brought the appraised value—$3,375—and we congratulate Dr. DeLano upon its acquisition. We believe Arkansas offers no better investments now than Carroll county farm land.

Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Bryant were entertained at dinner yesterday by Dr.
and Mrs. A. A. Milligan, going to meet the host's brother and sister-in-law.
The couple last-named stopped over in Eureka Springs to visit their relatives while en route to Indiana from an extensive trip through Texas.

Miss Ruth Littleton was hostess
Monday evening to the Epicureans, giving the club girls a pleasant time.
Miss Alice Jenkins, as usual, won the prize in the games played. Mrs. Ethel Brumfield Moore and Miss Eva Moler-were guests and with their old chums enjoyed the delicious luncheon served by Miss Ruth.

Dr. J. Fred Bolton's friends have prevailed upon him to announce as candidate for the office of alderman in the second ward. Perhaps no one knows the needs of our resort better than a physician and many of our people importuned Dr. Bolton to give part of his time to the public good in this way.

J. W. Newport, one of the city's oldest residents, feels willing to take some time from his grocery business to devote to Eureka Springs' interests as alderman from the second ward, and announces today as an independent candidate for the office. Mr. New-

last night, going in the interest of the bill to continue the payment of taxes in District No. 3, Eureka Springs.
This legislation is sought in order to meet the just indebtedness of that district, growing out of the fact that the assessed valuation of the property of the district has not been sufficient to meet the payment on bonds and coupons, and incidental expenses of the district.

At Crescent college tonight at eight o'clock, the sophomore and intermediate students in piano, voice, expression and violin, will give a recital.
(See program elsewhere.) This will be a grand program and many difficult pieces will be rendered. The college orchestra and chorus will both take part. Piano, vocal and violin concerts will be interspersed with vocal and instrumental duets, duos, trios and quartets. Admission free. The public is cordially invited.

Mrs. Pickard was hostess to the Magazine club on Saturday last. A very fine program was given on Arkansas, during the civil war. Miss Harriet Page gave a thorough description of this time, with Mrs. Pickard as an able second. Mrs. Regan read a selection and Mrs. Read gave two simultaneous state governments, giving an afternoon of good state history about which so many of us transplanted to Arkansas are glad to know, from such reliable sources. One seemed to remember some incident in their own life that these remarks brought to mind.

NATIONAL SANITARIUM SOCIETY

upon three hundred days of golden sunshine in each year; and this is no small item in the treatment of Bright's disease.

Our waters have been distilled in Earth's own laboratory for the cure of Bright's Disease—everything omitted that would hinder and just that added that would relieve. Fortunately, in this distillation there is power of elimination for a thousand other and serious ailments, else it would not prove remedial in Bright's disease;
for this disorder is certain to be complicated with many others. And, by the way, the "A. B. C." of Bright's disease is quite simple. Its causation, aside from traumatism or direct injury, and sequelae of diphtheria, typhoid fever, pneumonia and malarial or other poisons (all of which combined form but a small minority of causative factors) is to be found in the vast majority of cases in the alimentary tract and resulting from causes which could readily be avoided. Insufficient mastication and oversuf-ficient quantity of food result in sur-charging the blood with water, much of which must be eliminated through the kidneys. When less than one hundred millions of people, for example, annually butcher and eat several hundred million hogs, there can be little surprise that the "American Stomach" has gained an international reputation. Slight attention is paid the fact that the saliva plays a most important role in the human economy, yet its active principle—ptyalin, is the only secretion in the system that will dissolve the glutinous capsule enclosing each starch cell and insure digestion of the cell itself.

Neglect of this point renders rice,
and other starchy food ferments
—not nutritives. Another characteristic of the American Stomach is the ease with which it accommodates itself by passing its burden on to the intestine, though but partly digested, and so in an impossible condition for intestinal digestion and for assimilation.
Consequently, the villa, the absorbents of the bowel must take up great quantities of waste along with the nutritive particles. To eliminate this waste, we have the functions of the skin,
the respiratory system and the kidneys—
most of the work falling on the last named. This results in overwork and congestion of a part or all of each kidney which condition we term Bright's disease. Now while all the foregoing has been taking place, mal-assimilation has so impoverished the blood that weakness and strain have become felt in many directions; so that every case of Bright's disease has complications peculiar to itself.
Not only are various organs weakened and congested but every minute cell of the system suffers likewise and in the relief of this cell irritability is found the heaven sent mission of the peculiar remedy found in this purest of all waters. I refer to Silicia, a full dose of which is contained in every pin of water that you drink from these springs.

Here we have in solution the remedy which for many years has been known among physicians of Continental Europe and of this country as well, as the greatest tissue builder known to twentieth century medicine. Dropsical effusions may be removed by drugs and adjuvants but relief would be temporary were it not for the noble work of this marvelous remedy to which the countless cures of Eureka Springs owe their permanency.

We cannot too strongly emphasize the fact that mineral water is spoiled when for many years practiced medicine at a prominent mineral water resort in Texas and who spent nearly two years at our resort in an effort to eliminate from his system the toxic effect of that water. He declared it almost impossible to eliminate mineral poison taken in solution and further gave it as his opinion that no one could drink that water for a longer period than ten days without injury.

Permit me to say, in closing, as intimated in the early part of this paper, that the vast majority of cases of Bright's disease result from so-called innocent habits of diet, exercise and even of drinking water; and it is not probable that people upon whose in this malady has become fixed will change these habits and do the wise thing by simply coming into this community; so it is just common sense that medical advice be promptly sought as to the best manner of ad-

MUNDILL

Miss Reta Ash visited Miss Edith Cox last Saturday. The girls had a good time together.

Miss Caroline Schnitzer, who has been ill, is improving and all rejoice, for she is liked by all who know her.

Orman Webb, of Rogers, is visiting friends at Mundell. All are glad to see him, for he is a young man of merit.

J. C. H. Ely rode out Saturday for the first time in over a month and he hopes to be able to go to Eureka Springs by the last of this week.

W. W. Roark closed his four-month school last Thursday at Union Chapel. He is a well-known educator, and all express satisfaction with his teaching.

The circuit court at Bentonville will be well represented from this neighborhood. About 70 witnesses have been summoned in a case wherein the State of Arkansas is the plaintiff and Jesse Morrison is defendant. I hear that Morrison has Wade H. James and Vol and Wythe Walker to defend him, and that the State's prosecuting attorney will have associate counsel.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENNEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

DANGER IN DELAY

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Eureka Springs People to Neglect

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with the safe and reliable remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which have cured people right here in this locality.

N. G. Bradley, Rogers, Ark., says: "My kidneys were disordered for four of five years and I was in misery until I was fortunate enough to learn of Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from a constant, dull pain in the small of my back, dizzy spells were common and I was bothered at night by irregular passage of the kidney secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills soon brought about a change for the better and I am now enjoying good health. I gladly recommend this remedy."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Railroad Officials Leave

Helena, Feb. 28.—Vice President George L. Sands; C. D. Whitney, general traffic manager; J. R. Stirling, assistant superintendent, and several other officials of the Missouri and North Arkansas railway, who have been here several days, looking after options on an individual incline, left here this morning, after partially completing their business.

Elected Again

Harrison, Feb. 28.—C. L. Moore, the present superintendent of schools, was re-elected for another year, at a recent meeting of the Board of Education. The High School band is planning to attend the contest to be held in Little Rock in April.

When Burglar's Met

Patricia Weldon held the receiver to her ear and listened to her own voice.

"Pat, dear, do you mind running over to our house to put a few shovels of coal in our furnace? Tom wants me to stay in town for dinner. We will be out on the nine-forty. It's an awful thing to ask you to do, dear, but we don't want the fire to go out on such a cold night. You don't mind? You are a darling. Pat, and don't forget that when you go in by the cellar door to close it gently—sometimes the lock slips and locks itself. Be careful. Good-by, dear."

Patricia hung up the receiver. She decided to go over to the house herself and attend to the fire. The Stone home was just across a small lot. She slipped her long fur coat over her tea gown and after locking her own door she went over to the house of her friend.

She found no difficulty in opening the cellar door and removed her heavy coat and left it on the step. She slipped her long fur coat over her tea gown and after locking her own door she went over to the house of her friend.

In the big living room above a man sprang quickly to his feet.

"By Jove! There's somebody prowling about in the cellar!" He tiptoed over to a huge bag lying on the couch and took out a large, ugly-looking shotgun.

"I'll just surprise him at his own game—even if the gun isn't loaded."

The man crept cautiously down the cellar stairs, the noise of shaking down the fire drowning his footsteps.

Patricia Weldon took one last look into the fire and, turning suddenly, found herself looking into the muzzle of a shotgun. She promptly fired the first thing that entered her head. She fell in a faint to the floor.

The man's gun fell almost before the girl dropped. He rushed to her side and with something very much like a swear word on his lips picked up the huddled mass of unconscious beauty and with shaking heart but steady arms carried it up the stairs.

When he stopped, half-way up, to kick the fur coat out of his way, Patricia found her senses. She felt herself being rather reluctantly put down on the couch in the living room. The man sat down beside her then and with a man's awkwardness began to fan her with a magazine.

"Wake up, girl! For goodness' sake wake up!"

His next move would be for water, and she had no desire to be soaked and as she opened her eyes slowly and effectively.

"Who are you and how do you happen to be in Mrs. Stone's house?" she asked.

"Who are you and how do you happen to be in my sister's house?" came the man's laugh.

Patricia jumped up. "Alice's brother! She has never mentioned that she has a brother!"

"Nor has she mentioned to me she has a new chum!"

If the light of understanding dawned in both minds at the same time, neither spoke of it.

"I have just come in from a hunting trip and before that I had circled the globe."

"I suppose the gun you were to shoot me—"

"Was not loaded. I can't tell how sorry I am to have frightened you so. I couldn't see any one until you fell—the turn was sudden."

"It was stupid of me to fall," had come over to fix the flint. "Alice."

"If you feel equal to it now, get your coat and take you. I will The man leaned forward in his chair.

Patricia looked up. "Are you married?" she asked suddenly.

"No. Are you?"

"No."

Then they both laughed.

"Because," Patricia continued, "in this instance, to be married, I rather than strictly proper. Tensile no one home at my house and there is no one here to get your dinner."

Now, I am not much of a cook, but I intend to get your dinner for you. The girl looked him squarely in the eyes.

"There is not a bit of sense in your sitting alone here and musing there, especially when—"

"When what?" A light had come into Dick's eyes.

"When I—when you are my friend's brother." She turned her best toward the kitchen.

"Alice said there was a nice steak and some lettuce—"

"Alice!" Pat turned swiftly toward him, her cheeks scarlet. "What Alice know about this affair?"

She looked suspiciously at Dick. "Did she know you were here?"

"Sure! I saw her in town."

told me how to get in and and myself perfectly at home."

Patricia was looking at him. "I wouldn't have frightened of your wits with a gun if I had—about you," he put in, and known himself.

Then Pat smiled.

"Alice is not very particular whom she sends to you for a book."

"Sis knows I am not looking for a book." Dick looked into the girl's eyes.

Receiver's Notice

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance to the order of the Honorable Chancellor of the 11th Chancery District of Arkansas, dated the 21st day of February, 1911, I will, as Receiver of the Central Bank of Eureka Springs, Arkansas, offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash, all of the personal property of said bank, except commercial paper, evidences of debt and similar assets, and including in said sale the bank fixtures, furniture, furnishings, vault and vault doors and other furniture and fixtures used in the business of banking. Among the articles to be sold are one large screw door, time lock safe, one Burroughs Adding Machine, cashier's and teller's windows and counters, miscellaneous bank stationery and forms and pass books, scales, filing boxes, desks, blank books, and divers other articles too numerous to mention.

Said sale will be held on the 23rd day of March, 1911, at the front door of the former Central Bank office on Spring street, opposite postoffice, between the hours of 1 o'clock and 3 o'clock p. m. of said day. Said articles will be offered separately, and after completion of such offer, all of said articles will be offered in gross and be sold in gross if the bid therefor shall exceed the aggregate offers upon the said articles offered separately; no sale to be declared unless the entire property offered shall bring at least the sum of $2,000.00.

Any person desiring to examine said property or any part thereof may do so before sale by calling upon the undersigned for that purpose from 9 to 12 o'clock a. m. on March 23, 1911. This February 27th, 1911.

A TEXAS ORANGE ORCHARD

Will Pay You OVER $2,000 YEARLY

We Plant and Care for the Trees While You Make Easy Monthly Payments on Your Orchard

Owners of Orange and Fig Orchards in the TEXAS GULF COAST COUNTRY are Becoming Wealthy on Small Acreage

Mr. N. E. Stout sold $6,363 worth of oranges from 6½ acres last year. His 1,500 fig trees brought him $1,338.86—over $1.25 per tree. Other growers are making $500 to $1,000 per acre annually.

Great Demand for Oranges and Figs

The famous Satsuma Orange ripens 30 to 60 days earlier than Florida or California fruit, and brings a higher market price than any other American orange.

Magnolia Figs are so popular that preserving companies are to make contracts with growers five years ahead. The trees bear with amazing rapidity, commercial crops being the rule the third year after planting.

Features of "Chocolate Bayou Orchards"

We Own 30,000 Acres of Rich Land on Chocolate Bayou, Brazoria County, Texas, and are planting an immense acreage of oranges and figs. These are laid out in orchards of five and ten acres each. We plow the land, set out the trees, cultivate and prune them, keeping your orchard in a high state of cultivation for three years. You have our positive guarantee that at the end of the contract period all of your trees will be in a sturdy, bearing condition. A small cash payment and easy monthly payments will secure a "Chocolate Bayou Orchard" for you now, that should return one-half your purchase price the first commercial bearing year.

Send for Free Booklet

Our illustrated 32-page booklet gives full information, shows our advantages—2,000 miles nearer markets than California, 45 inches of rainfall, mild winters, pleasant summers, shipping facilities by rail and water, close proximity to Houston and Galveston (the two most important cities in Texas), what owners are making, etc.

This may be exactly what you are looking for—a safe, conservative investment opportunity—a chance to get away from the freezing Northern winters, and to own an orchard home in the genial Texas Gulf Coast Country.

The Voice of Ingratitude

Cincinnati Enquirer.—
It was Richard Brinsley Sheridan, a man trained in politics and well acquainted with politicians, who said, "A wise man should doubt of everything."

From his familiarity with British leaders and the fact that he uttered the phrase in a parliamentary debate in the house of commons, he must have had impressed upon his mind the faithlessness, ingratitude and duplicity of one he had entire confidence in.

History repeats itself, and seldom does there arrive in the political arena the like of the completely successful would have been the case with the loyalty, good faith and devotion to the interests of those who have been loyal, faithful and devoted to him.

Ingratitude in any form by every human being is regarded as an index to a despicable character, and when exhibited by the mendicant who has been given a crust, or by one who has been raised to official position through the efforts of sincere friends, it is usually dishonorable, detestable and odious to all fair-thinking persons.

The annals of public affairs are replete with the names of ambitious weaklings who have sought to advance their own selfish interests by the sacrifice of true friends to secure the support or applause of enemies.

Additions to the list will continue to be made, but the political epitaphs will also be as continuous and as uniform, for retributive justice invariably ends such careers with defeat and disappointment.

It was Jackson, who would rather meet defeat with his friends than go to victory with his enemies, yet success named him her hero, and his memory is well beloved throughout his country today.

It was Lincoln who refused to compromise with his assailants and epitomized political wisdom in his maxim, "Never swap horses while crossing a stream."

It was Grant who suffered from errors of trusted friends, but whose touching tenderness for even those who abused his loyalty to them, gives him today his high place in the kindly memories of the American people.

Our people despise a man who betrays his friends to forward his interests with enemies, and there exists in every human breast the assurance that such a man is unworthy of either personal or public confidence. However profuse his professions, however attractive his suggestions, or loud and forceful his promises, the knowledge that a man has abandoned or betrayed those who assisted and aided him in his career, stamps him as unworthy of them, and repels for all time the approval of the populace.

Never yet lived the man who abandoned friends for enemies but found his hopes were but illusions and his ambitions as naught.

Fred Somers and his widowed mother were having a family talk in the library. Fred was still in college, but he was a very wise young man. He was so wise that he had attempted to dictate to his sister, Edith, as to how her smiles were to be distributed.

"Yes, I wish Edith were more tractable," sighed the mother.

"Tractable!" exclaimed the son. "Why, I hadn't spoken 20 words to her when she flamed up and said I needed a guardian myself. I'm 24 and she is under 20 and yet she will not take my advice. What are you going to do with such a girl?"

"We will have to argue with her."

"Can you argue with a girl who has her fists doubled up? Now let's go over the list again. There is Waters, who is a perfect ninny. There is Thompson, who hasn't got a dollar. There is Rush, who is a perfect sissy. There is Alvord, who sings passably well, but will never earn $25 a week. There is Clingham, who is living on his poor old mother's bounty. The whole five rolled into one wouldn't make a man and yet she keeps them dangling around her."

Edith Somers had at least the five callers named at the family council. Two or three of them had escorted her to the theater. Another had taken her to the horse show. She had bowed to them on the avenue or in the park and she had chatted and smiled at home. What of it? Can't a girl do that and much more without being in love? Her 24-year-old brother will say no. Edith Somers hadn't yet given a thought to marriage.

In his class were three different young men Fred liked exceedingly well. He invited them by turns to run down home with him and of course sister Edith met them. As far as Fred could make out they were simply added to the five heretofore mentioned. He believed they were impressed, but just as soon as he began sounding their praises Miss Edith began talking with the canary or playing with the cat. When he turned and began criticising them she would go to the piano and strike up ragtime.

Another family council was called. "I throw up my hands!" announced Fred in tones of despair.

"What's she done now?" meaning Edith.

"Got two more! One has been in an insane asylum, I believe, and the other will soon get there. I had to say something to her a while ago."

"I had five beaux at one time myself," replied the mother, who thought the case had not yet arrived at the danger point.

"But she's got 10 and more coming every minute!"

"But she can't care for them all."

"But you see she'll pick out the poorest one of the lot!"

Summer opened; Fred came home on his vacation and the trio went to a lake resort. The dozen dangers were heart-broken, but Edith Somers didn't seem a bit cast down. At the end of a fortnight a new face appeared at the Somers' table. Fred sized up the stranger and said to himself:

"Homely enough to stop a clock. No fear of Edith taking to him."

And after several furtive glances across the table Edith said to herself:

"Strong, sensible, unromantic. I might like him."

After three or four days there were introductions. The stranger was George French, mining engineer.

Mr. French was invited to go out in a sail boat with the trio. Mr. Fred was 24 years old and he took charge of the boat. There was no great call for wisdom in the managing of a sail boat in a gusty day. All that is needed is about five years' experience.

Ten minutes of exhilaration and then a gust struck her and she went over. The wise Fred was tangled up with the sail and the two ladies were ready to go to the bottom when Mr. French got clear of the rope tangled about his legs and began work. He reached out an arm for all and gathered them to the overturned boat and directed and chilled and encouraged until the rescuer came.

It was three months later that Fred Somers said to his sister:

"Eddie, what's become of that civil engineer?"

"Out west, I believe," was the answer.

"Say, now, I was in hopes—"

"Yes?"

"Why don't you?"

"He hasn't quite asked me to yet, but I expect he will in his next letter."

"And you'll—?"

"Oh, run along and have me committed to a private asylum! You are 24 years old and a very, very wise young man!"

Something New in Stories.

Marguerite Andoux is forty-six years old and has been a seamstress since she was twenty-one years of age, and she cannot spell correctly, and yet she has written a book within the last few months that is considered of almost perfect style by the critics. There is no moralizing, no description of emotion, no character sketching in "Marie-Claire," but every line is truth and pictures come crowding upon one another as one reads the sweet, simple story.

Need to Hurry
Don't fail to read all about the Chocolate Bayou land. 'Tis said to be the richest body of land in Texas.

In six weeks the price has advanced $10 per acre; on April 15th there will be another raise of $15. The less money you have to invest the greater the need to put it where it will bring the largest returns with safety.

Better investigate this proposition.

The man who buys now ten acres of Baldwin county Alabama, Gulf coast land and plants pecans, oranges and figs will in the near future thank me for bringing the investment to his notice.

Men in South Texas are now refusing $1,000 an acre for orange groves. Better investigate our offer of $25 an acre with town lot.

TO THE MERCHANTS OF ARKANSAS AND THE SOUTHWEST

The manufacturers and jobbers of LITTLE ROCK believe that by indisputable fact based on location and conditions as argument, they can convince you that

It is to Your Interest to Buy in LITTLE ROCK

Let Us Reason Together

We are not posing as philanthropists working unselfishly for your benefit, but we present a plan in BUSINESS proposition which we know is to our mutual advantage. Little Rock has made tremendous strides in coming to the front as a jobbing center for Arkansas and the surrounding Southwest territory. Twenty-five years ago merchants in this territory bought groceries in New Orleans and St. Louis. The merchant who would do this today would be lacking in business judgment. What is true of the grocery business today is equally true of the dry goods, hats, millinery, notions, boots and shoes, drugs, furniture, mattresses, mill supplies, machinery, saddlery, hardware, stationery, brick and building supplies, pianos and organs, stoves, roofing, paints, oils, candy, lime, cement, seeds, implements, cigars, automobiles and all other lines.

Why has Little Rock Grown?

From the one original jobbing house Little Rock's wholesale trade has expanded until absolutely every line is represented so that in this market the merchant can buy his complete line to better advantage (time, convenience and freight rates considered), than in any competing market. Several hundred traveling men represent Little Rock in every part of this and surrounding states. Every year shows an increase in the volume of business. Every year shows an increase in the number who find it to their advantage to buy in this market.

If it benefits others to buy in Little Rock why not investigate for yourself. Convenience, Low Freight Rates, Quick Delivery.

Your railroad fare paid both ways by applying to the Board of Trade if your purchases in all lines aggregates $500

EATS WHAT HE LIKES AFTER TAKING FREE SAMPLE

It will be welcome news to dyspeptics to learn of a remedy that, in the opinion of thousands, is an absolute cure for indigestion and all forms of stomach trouble, and, better still, it is guaranteed to do so. The remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

We all know the value of pure pepsin in indigestion, and add to this some exceptional laxative ingredients and you have a truly wonderful remedy. Mr. T. W. Worthy of Forsythe, Ga., got to the point where he could not even eat or digest vegetables and after many years of seeking he found the cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Rudy Kasner of Moline, Ill., was in the same bad predicament with his stomach, took Syrup Pepsin and is now cured. Hundreds of others would gladly testify.

It is a guaranteed cure for indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach and similar complaints. A bottle can be had at any drug store for fifty cents or a dollar, but if you wish to make a test of it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will supply a free sample bottle, sent direct to your address. You will soon admit that you have found something to replace salts, cathartics, breath perfumes and other temporary reliefs. Syrup Pepsin will cure you permanently.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him: Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.
