EUREKA SPRING --- A HEALTH RESORT

The undersigned citizens and tax payers would most heartily endorse both Mrs. Gill's and Taxpayer's recent articles. Also would commend Mayor, Butt for his exhaustive report of city finances, etc., letting us know just where we are "at." We have long looked for some report of city finances, etc., and in its absence have had to listen to extravagant reports of our indebtedness, etc., etc. It has not been my privilege to attend the Commercial club meetings because of the time of meeting, but we have confidence in the management and feel that there are some things that absolutely should be done, even if it does increase our taxes some.

Mrs. Gill has well said "Eureka Springs is a health resort."

Thousands of people have been wonderfully helped by its waters and we are going to be the losers if we don't keep this thing prominently before the people, making everything count toward the better sanitary conditions and better living or housing conditions. There is no better place to live in the full meaning of the word.

Homeseekers are what we want and next to that is to keep tourists and health-seekers here as long as possible by taking good care of them in the fullest meaning of the word. The wealthy tourists, with fine cars and fine camping outfits will not tarry here. They are on the "fly."

We would be tabooed if we said one word about economy or used any of its derivatives, for they are about obsolete.

We have noticed, however, that there are some ladies that would conserve on dress material and have gone to the other extreme, until it looks like a halt will have to be called.

If we expect to accomplish anything for Eureka Springs we must work together.

So here's for a long, strong, all-together pull for our resort.

CARELESSNESS, A MATHEMATICAL WIZARD

"I am not much of a mathematician," said Carelessness, modestly, "but I can add to your troubles, I can subtract from your earnings, I can multiply your aches and pains, I can take interest from your work, and discount your chances for safety. Besides this I can divide your thoughts between business and pleasure and be a potent factor in your failures. Even if I am with you only a small fraction of the time, I can lessen your chances for success. I am a figure to be reckoned with. Cancel me from your habits and it will add to your total happiness."—Schnectady Work News.

SELL PART OF LIBRARY.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Jennie Duddleston came here from Memphis, Tenn., to attend the 74th anniversary birthday of her sister, Mrs. M. E. Guffey, which was last Sunday. This birthday, in connection with Mr. J. A. Guffey's 83d birthday, which occurred on the 1st of January, was celebrated in a fitting manner Monday by thirty friends, who appeared at their pleasant home, carrying with them baskets of good things to eat. Mrs. Guffey, knowing they were coming, prepared a ten-pound roast, which went well with the salads and other vegetables brought by the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Guffey always extend a cordial greeting to those who enter their portals, and last Monday was no exception, and those who were present report a good time.

The business women who were invited to come at the noon hour, were the first ones served, in order for them to return to their work at 1:00 o'clock, but the rest stayed until a late afternoon hour and spent the time in spelling, singing, conversation and otherwise amusing themselves.

After dinner the "fragments" were gathered up and put in baskets and sent to the Bethany orphanage—an institution in which Mrs. Guffey and friends are much interested.

AN ILLINOISAN RECOMMENDS HUGO LUND

The following letter is from Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McCurdy, good friends of Eureka Springs. In it they send their kindest regards to all friends. We will explain to Mr. and Mrs. McCurdy that we have not yet "got around" to several bachelors, but hope to soon.

Neoga, Ill., Jan. 26, 1920.

Editor of Flashlight:—We beg space and trust that an item from Illinois will be of interest to a few of the readers of the Flashlight. We have spent two winters in Eureka Springs, and admire the good pure spring water, and the fine climate, beautiful scenery, sociable people and pretty girls, all very much, and we are looking and longing for another opportunity to go "Back to that Tumbled Down Shack" in Eureka Springs. We have certainly had some winter here. It froze up the last of November and has never thawed but little since. The ice now on the ponds and creeks is nearly eighteen inches thick. A ten-inch snow fell a month ago and most of it is here yet, while a heavy sleet fell a week ago and everything is covered with an inch of ice as slick as glass now. This is quite a fruit country here, especially apples and it is feared this sleet will kill them. We were very sorry when we read in the Flashlight, "Information for Leap Year Wooers" that you had failed to mention our dear friend, Mr. Hugo Lund. Now, we are certain that Hugo is about the proper age and that those pretty roses and flowers, and the terrace garden of "Little Switzerland" and that good pure water of the close by "Little Eureka" spring. Say, gals, old maids and pretty widows, what more could you ask? But it might be all right, if any of ye fair sex are casting sheep eyes that way to send back here and get Mr. George Moran to come down and make the introductory spiel. However, we can say that we knew Hugo many years ago, when he lived in Illinois and have roomed at "Little Switzerland" the two winters we were at Eureka Springs, and the fair one that woos and wins Hugo will certainly make a catch that she will be proud of long after the price has been forgotten.

Kindest love and best wishes to all,
I am, Respectfully yours,
W. L. M'CURDY.

Tourist Club's Annual Dinner

The annual dinner of the Tourist club will occur at the Thack at 1 p. m., Friday, January 30. Phone 93, ordering dinner, not later than Thursday noon. No reservation will be made after that time. Dinner, 50c. —1-28, adv.

GET TOGETHER LUNCHEON, THURSDAY

Editor Times-Echo:

Thursday, the 29th, the first one of the Get-Together luncheon will be held at Hicks' cafe at 12 o'clock noon. The price of luncheon will be 50 cents. Those desiring to attend should notify either Hicks' cafe in person or by phone or leave the name at the office of Bare & Swett. It is desired that notice be given of intention to attend not later than 9:00 a. m., Thursday. This is the beginning of what promises to be one of the most productive events that Eureka Springs will have. Everybody interested in the welfare of Eureka Springs is invited and it is expected that the women will attend, the same as men. There will be a jolly good time and the discussion will be most interesting and profitable.

DARREL WALKER HOME SICK.

There is one family in Eureka Springs that has the sympathy of all the city, and that is the J. T. Walker family, on East Mountain. And we often wonder why such good citizens are doomed to so much trouble.

The latest trouble to enter this family takes from the Southwestern Bell Telephone company's office, the sweet-voiced, gentle and accommodating "hello" girl, Miss Jessie Walker, where she was performing a public service, but now Miss Jessie is called on to do the sweetest and most sacred service of all, and that is to Carpen Walker, who has returned from an army hospital in Texas, desperately ill. He went to this hospital to have his lungs looked after, but it seems as if the hospital, which is a new one, is so overly crowded, that he could not get the proper care, and so returns home seemingly worse than he went. Mr. Walker was among the first of the Eureka Springs boys to volunteer for service, and his friends feel and appreciate the great sacrifice he made, when they look at him. Miss Jessie is at home assisting her father to care for the soldier boy, while Mrs. Walker is in Tulsa, Okla., with little 6-year-old blind Marie, whose eyes are being treated with the hopes that she will be restored to her sight.

Mrs. Sally Morris, a favorite with everyone, especially among her Wall street neighbors, is supplying for Miss Jessie at central. When we say "especially among her Wall street neighbors" no greater compliment could be bestowed on Mrs. Morris, or any one else, for it takes a mighty good woman or man to be popular with a whole neighborhood.

DEALING WITH UN-DEPORTED.

America consists of Americans and of nothing but Americans. Those, who within the past few years, have come to think of America as a vast mixture of languages, races and clashing doctrines, have had the wrong viewpoint. They have been thinking of America as a place and not as an ideal.

Millions of immigrants have crossed the ocean from the Old World. They have reached our shores, but many of them have never reached America. On the other hand, many of our native born are not now and never have been Americans. There is no such thing as an "American Red." There is no such thing as an "American I. W. W."

An American is a man who feels American, thinks American and acts American no matter where he was born.

America has plenty of room and a warm welcome for those who wish to become Americans, but it cannot spare a single square foot of soil to those who intend to continue un-American and anti-American. Fortunately, we can deport some of the most noxious of these intruders, but these are but a small percentage of the unfit. What about the remainder?

There is but one answer: They must be Americanized.

This, however, is not a task for the department of justice, not even for congress and the various state legislatures; it is a task for the rank and file of American citizens. It is a task of education plus, and of influence plus; it is really a task of moral coercion. It is a task for swift and energetic action, wherein American citizens in all their vast numbers must seize opportunities when they exist, and create opportunities when they do not exist, to Americanize all who come within their own circles or else to cast them out of their circles.

It is no time to talk of "broad-minded sympathy" or of "conciliation," where a great question of right and wrong is involved. You cannot "conciliate" evil any more than you can "conciliate" a conflagration.

Eureka Springs, Ark., Feb. 11, 1917.

FIELD NOTES BY COUNTY AGENT GREER

It now looks like that the farmers of Carroll county might soon be working together co-operatively as they have not been before. One shipment of red clover seed, bought co-operatively, saved the group that received them more than $350 on the one shipment. If these seed had not been bought and use co-operatively, if the men who purchased them had bought separately on the home market, they would have been out $350 more than they were. This should be a small object lesson of what co-operation will do for the farmer.

Strawberry interest grows apace. The acreage of the Berryville association is rapidly nearing the 100-acre mark; Urbanette acreage is growing slowly, but surely; Grandview is increasing the acreage there very materially; Eureka Springs is also increasing its acreage; Green Forest is beginning to wake up, too, and we hope to see a good association organized there in the next few days. We must begin to look more and more to fruit and other things than corn, wheat and oats, if we hope to be a prosperous people.

We have the promise of Mr. H. B. Lansden, poultry specialist, of the extension division of Arkansas, for a few days' work in March. He will give practical demonstrations on culling, and will teach us how to select the laying hens and pullets from the non-layers; also give us practical instructions on feeding, breeding and care of poultry. He will be in the county from March 8 to 11, and we will later publish a list of appointments for the meeting. Watch for them and plan to attend, for poultry is a safe bet for the folks here in Carroll county. Let's learn to get more out of our poultry business.

Mr. W. H. Woodley, dairy specialist, will spend the second week in February in Carroll county. We will publish his dates in another column of this paper. "Old Pide" is one animal that will come nearer paying for her feed than any other animal on the farm, but we want to get better cows so as to have a good, healthy profit over and above the cost of care and feed. Mr. Woodley knows the cow from a to z and you should hear him and get some new pointers on the care of your cows, milk and cream; also on feeding and the making of some of the conveniences for the dairy barn.

We visited the creamery at Green Forest last week. Found the new butter maker to be a very gentlemanly and efficient man. If the stockholders of this creamery play their cards right under his management it will become one of that town's best assets. They are talking of adding a small ice plant and ice cream factory which will be splendid adjuncts to make it more successful. There ought to be enough pride for this institution that not a pound of cream would leave Green Forest, other than through this creamery. It will mean the bringing of more good farmers and the making of more good farmers than any other one thing that could come to that center. As time goes by we hope to see more and more of the farmers of Green Forest territory selling their cream to this institution.

Tom Phillips, of Urbanette, is one of the progressive farmers of the county who has an abiding faith in alfalfa, and he is sowing a large acreage this year. He has been growing alfalfa on his farm near Urbanette long enough to know that it is one of our best crops. The farmer who gets further away from the old idea of corn and wheat and oats, and lines up for alfalfa, clovers, grasses, etc., for meadows and pastures, is the one who is going to win.

Mr. Phillips also is a firm believer in the strawberry for this section and is doing all he can both by precept and example, to encourage the industry in that section. He also believes in the Poland China and has one of the best males and sows of that breed in Carroll county.

Allie Pitts and Sarah Sawyer, who own the Jim Hodge place, south of Eureka Springs, on the Huntsville road, will sell $500 worth of hay from a few acres of their farm, proving again that the farmer who pins his faith to alfalfa and grass can win.

the same labor and investment on the small acreage they had in. A few acres of the place set to good fruit trees and berries will give them a well-rounded small farm that will always get them by.

We do not like to be reiterating facts, but we feel like the circumstances warrant our doing so. We are sending too much money away for things we should be producing here at home. Thousands of dollars are leaving Carroll county for grass and clover seed that we can produce here at home, not only for home use but for export as well. Some complain that clover is too easily killed out. That complaint is not well founded on fact. The reason so many lose their stands of clover and grass is the fact that they have exhausted the humus or organic matter of their soils, leaving them in such condition that they cannot store large reserves of moisture. We must begin restoring humus and organic matter to our soils so we will not suffer from ordinary dry spells of weather as we do.

Then other farmers have not learned that clover is not a perennial, but a biennial, living only two years, and has to be reseeded, or the second crop the second year allowed to go to seed and worked into the soil. We should use the clovers and sweet clover to begin building our tinner soils. They, with the use of barnyard manure and commercial fertilizers, will enable the Carroll county farmer to more rapidly restore fertility, and increase it wonderfully. A combination of orchard grass and red clover not only helps to build the soil but makes a wonderful cash crop. The orchard grass, for a seed crop, this year, is selling for $4 per bushel of fourteen pounds of re-cleaned seed. It will yield right along with wheat, and after the orchard grass seed crop is saved a splendid hay crop can be saved, and then a lot of good early winter pasture secured from the same field.

A word of caution to those having such meadows, who have not had experience, might not be out of place. You will have to use caution in pasturing your orchard grass and clover. Do not pasture close, or late in the spring, as the seed stems of orchard grass start early and you may pasture too late or heavy, and ruin your seed crop. Pasturing with heavy stock, especially when the weather is wet, is bad policy. We might say a ruinous policy—for it will endanger your success with that crop.

Not long since we heard a farmer say that in the future the fruit, or rather apples, would probably be produced by the orchard men who specialized in apples. Maybe so, but we do not believe that would be best. Which would be the best for Carroll county, one large 1,000 acre orchard, well cared for, or 100 small 10-acre orchards well cared for? And every farm that has good apple land should have at least a good home orchard that will provide the family with good fresh fruit at all seasons of the year.

The trouble is that so many plant trees and neglect them, when a few hours' attention occasionally, would take care of them and do it well. Hours that are probably wasted, could be used to do this work. Not only should apples be grown on every farm, but a few well selected peaches, plums, cherries and some berries, should also be set. They add to the health of the family as well as to its finances. When you spray the apples this year, spray the peach, plum, and cherry trees also.

We hope in another year to see our farmers co-operating more in the spray material. A small investment in each community growing considerable fruit will build a plant for the manufacture of lime sulphur, thus saving freight and expense of shipping thousands of gallons of this material which had as well be made here at home, saving not only freights of the water used in making it, but the waste which must occur to some extent from leakage. The introduction of bitter rot to many of our orchards necessitate spraying with Bordeaux mixtures which are better prepared fresh at home. The use of Bordeaux mixture in the apple orchard will enable the farmer to control bitter rot of apples, and if applied properly to the peaches, plums and grapes, will prevent losses from black rot of those fruits.

DAIRY MEETINGS.

We will hold meetings for the benefit of farmers and others interested in milking better cows, at the times and places named below. Mr. W. H. Woodley, dairy specialist, will be with us, and we want to talk feeding, breeding, care and management of the herd and the products as well. Mr. Woodley is connected with the bureau of animal husbandry of the department of agriculture, and the college of agriculture in the extension division. If you have problems in his line be sure to come. Come anyhow and hear what he has to offer. We need better cows. He will tell us how to get them the most economically. We need to feed better. He will tell us of some of the best combinations in feeds. We need to take better care of the milk and cream. He will tell us how we can do so. We need to know more of calf feeding and care. He can tell us how. We need better equipment for taking care of the calves, especially the ones we raise by hand. We need to get more out of our cows. He will tell us how. We need to get rid of the star boarders in our cow herd. He will tell us how. We will have some good stereopticon pictures for these meetings.

We need to have him a month, but he has several counties to cover and we can't get him now but the one week. Let's attend these meetings and get all we can out of them, even if we are inconvenienced to some extent.

Monday, February 9, 2 p. m., at Eureka Springs; 8 p. m., Grandview.
Tuesday, February 10, 2 p. m., Berryville; 8 p. m., Urbanette.

WONDERFUL HEALTH
FOOD---YEASTOLE

Food is the best medicine. Yeast restored chickens improperly fed sooner than anything else. See Public Health Department Bulletin, "Ce-reals."

Dr. Evans, in Tribune; Allen in many papers; Dr. Brady and others, have advised use of yeast for boils, constipation, rheumatism, etc. See "Yeast," International Encyclopedia, Ladies' Home Journal for May, etc.

Charcoal is a simple and effective remedy for gas, bad breath, auto-intoxication, etc. Yeastole, yeast with charcoal, is disease preventive and valuable in any ailment; improves digestion.

Dr. Johnson, Oklahoma City, found Yeastole much better than ordinary yeast, beneficial in every case used. The cost of Yeastole is no more than cost of charcoal tablets alone, which anyone can use with benefit.

Four small cakes, with water, twenty minutes before meal or after, is usual adult requirement; omitting one day weekly.

Yeastole keeps better, tastes better, is better every way than ordinary yeast; is the first health yeast, made from best materials. Sold at Payne's.—Adv.

POULTRY MEETINGS.

Mr. H. B. Lansden, poultry specialist, with the extension division, will be with us three days, beginning March 8. We wanted him for a whole week, but could not get him that long at this time. He is a man who knows poultry and can be of invaluable help to those who are trying to grow poultry profitably. Arrange to attend one or more of these meetings.

We need to cull out the slackers among our hens. He will tell us how to select the laying hens and pullets. We need to know more about feeding and care; he can tell us. We need to know a lot of things that he can tell us. Be sure not forget the time and date. You will find them below. Let's show him that we are really interested and maybe it won't be so hard to get him to come back again soon.

Monday, March 8, 1 p.m., Eureka Springs high school; 2:30 p.m., at court house; 8 p.m., Grandview.

Wednesday, March 10, 9 a.m., Urbanette school; 2 p.m., Green Forest high school; 2:30 p.m., Green Forest; 8 p.m., Coin school house.

We have filled our program full for these three days, and if you want to hear what Prof. Lansden has to say, and to see the pictures, you had better come on time for we will have no time to wait if we make all the appointments. So come on time. If you don't, you will be sorry.

Yours for better poultry.

The Times-Echo avoids, when possible to mention about illness in the city, for there are some who seem to think because Eureka Springs is a health resort, no one ought ever to get sick. While it is true this is a health resort and one stays well longer here than anywhere else in the world, and has brought back from the very door of death to health, thousands of people, it is impossible and ridiculous to think that one does not become ill here as well as elsewhere. Regardless of all rules hitherto, we will tell the many friends of Mr. George Kennedy that after a severe attack of threatened pneumonia, he is now convalescing and was seen at his barber shop this morning, although not there for work. Mr. Kennedy is one of Eureka Spring's good citizens, and always a booster—never a knocker.

Do you know that Carnegie library is kept open to the public only thru the efforts of a few faithful women? Year in and year out they do not relax their interest or their work. Busy people who have not the time to read and think this is a good reason why they should give no attention to the maintenance of the library, do not realize what it would mean to Eureka Springs should the doors of this institution close. There are some who form an exception to this rule and who being far sighted enough to appreciate the value of the library to this place never refuse the solicitor, though attention to business demands every moment of time. There are volumes on the library shelves which appeal to all ages—young and old—and to all tastes. Volumes for recreation and for information on many and varied subjects, and $1 per year gives you access to all of this.

The Palace hotel is doing a thriving business and reports a full house. Everyone predicted when Mrs. Davis and Mr. Boggs took charge of this hostelry, it would have good patronage.

The Watchword "Safety"

The person with a modest surplus should be as much concerned with its safe and judicious investment as the one with a large sum.
Diligence must be exercised so that hard-earned, carefully saved funds do not go to swell the already-bulging pockets of unscrupulous schemers.
Our Certificates of Deposit—characterized not only by absolute safety, but stabilized income and quick convertibility—recommend themselves.
